Tolmie May Go to Ottawa Before End Of Present Session

Conservative Standard-bearer Won Federal By-election Yesterday By Ninety-four Votes; Official Count on Friday

Was Closest Race In Recent Years

Hon. S. F. Tolmie, elected yesterday to resume his seat in the House of Commons as member for Victoria, may proceed to Ottawa before the present session ends.

The ballots, on which the first count showed Dr. Tolmie elected with a plurality of 94 over Prof. King Gordon, C.C.F., and 254 over C. J. McDowell, Liberal, will be counted officially on Friday morning at 10 o'clock, Sydney Child, returning officer, announced today.

Four days will be then allowed in which any candidate may apply for a recount, and if no move is made, the election process will be complete on June 16.

Dr. Tolmie could go east with the election returns and be sworn in on his arrival. It is expected the House will sit at least to the end of this month.

THRILLING RACE

Dr. Tolmie's victory climaxed Victoria's most thrilling election night in years. The outcome was not assured until returns from the last of the city's 197 polling stations were totaled.

The final unofficial standing was:

Hon. S. F. Tolmie, 5,980.
Prof. King Gordon, 5,886.
C. J. McDowell, 5,726.

Each one of the candidates was ahead at one stage or another during the tally. Sections of the crowds outside newspaper offices cheered as their favorite showed in front at different times. Late returns from the Oak Bay district finally established Dr. Tolmie's lead.

The by-election left the standing in the Commons unchanged, and Victoria remains in the Conservative column as it has been since 1927. However, it took a big slice off the Conservative majority, which was over 1,000 in the general election last October.

An analysis of the vote by polling stations indicates a wide variation in sentiment in the different localities.

Dr. Tolmie drew the bulk of his strength from the Rockland Avenue district and a large part of Oak Bay. Prof. King Gordon recorded substantial majorities in the Oaklands and Hillside districts and also did fairly well in James Bay.

Mr. McDowell had a lead in the close-to-town area and had a slight edge in the Fairfield district. Equilibrium divided its affections evenly.

SIXTH WIN

Dr. Tolmie will go back to Ottawa for the sixth time. He was first elected to the common Parliament in 1917. He won a ministerial by-election in 1919, was returned at the general election in 1921, again in 1925 and again in 1926. On previous occasions his majority was never less than 2,000. He has never been defeated in running for a Commons seat.

"PLEASANTER TO WIN THAN LOSE"—TOLMIE

Newly-elected member for Victoria poses for picture this morning at Old Cloverdale homestead after yesterday's by-election success.

Winning Candidate Talks of Everything But Politics Today

Feels Happy at Heading By-election Poll "By Sticking Tongue Out to Get Under Wire First" Because He Did Not Want to Disappoint Friends; Recalls Boyhood Spanking and Talks About Birds, Vegetables and Trees

Dr. S. F. Tolmie greeted a reporter of The Victoria Daily Times on the doorstep of his familiar old homestead at Cloverdale this morning.

The genial former Premier of British Columbia was up and about early after his thrilling win in the by-election last night.

Other members of his household were not stirring and he had not yet had breakfast.

But he devoted nearly an hour to an interview in which he was brimming over with the good nature and quick wit which have made him a popular figure in this community.

"You can see the need for union government now, can't you," he said, touching on the subject which he had advocated throughout the campaign. "When anyone can come in here and advocate the franchise for the Orientals and get 5,800 votes, something is strangely wrong with British Columbia."

"Perhaps we were not so short-sighted when we urged union a few years ago."

But it was not a political interview and the talk soon drifted away from politics as Dr. Tolmie told some of the interesting things about his beloved old home, which simply reeks of the tradition of early Victoria.

First, however, he was proud to show a congratulatory wire from his leader at Ottawa, Hon. R. B. Bennett.

SECTION 98 IS TO BE REPEALED

Canadian Press
Ottawa, June 9.—Notice of a bill entitled "An Act to Amend the Criminal Code" appeared on today's votes and proceedings of the House of Commons, bearing out the promise of Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, that he would introduce legislation to repeal the much talked of Section 98.

Section 98 makes it a criminal offense to organize for the purpose of overthrowing governments by force, or to become a member of assemblies called for that purpose.

GEN. NIAO TO LEAD FORCES

Chinese Estimates Place Strength of New Canton Army at 600,000

Associated Press
Hongkong, June 9.—Command of the new Canton army has been offered to Gen. Niao-Pei-nam, formerly second in command of Chang Fat-kwai's "Ironside" who captured Canton in December, 1927.

The offer bears special significance because Chang is the special commander in Fukien province of the forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, military overlord of the Nanking (north) government.

Estimates today placed the military strength of the Canton (south) Chinese government at 600,000 men. Recruiting and conscription in the provinces continued as the southwestern leaders carried on their move to seek national unity against "Japanese aggression."

MOBILIZATION PROCLAIMED

Canadian Press from Hanoi
Canton, June 9.—The general staff of the Kwangsi provincial army today proclaimed general mobilization and announced the immediate severing of relations with Japan.

The general staff's proclamation appealed to all the armed forces of China for their co-operation, adding "All traitors who seek to hinder the progress of the anti-Japanese expedition will be combated energetically."

WARSHIPS AT AMOY

Shanghai, June 9.—Fifteen warships of the Nanking government have arrived at Amoy, in Fukien province, it was announced here today.

Amoy is about 300 miles northeast of Canton and Hongkong.

Although it was said this naval concentration formed part of the regular summer exercises, reports persisted the ships were being massed for an attack on the southern government at Canton should hostilities break out between the north and south.

Japanese officials at Tokyo have denied reports Japanese warships had been dispatched to Canton from Taiwan, Formosa, lying off Fukien province.

CREW GETS ASHORE AS SHIP BURNS

Canadian Press
Halifax, June 9.—The three-masted schooner Frances Jeanette ran ashore early today about one mile west of Grosbeak Island, the east coast radio signal service reported here.

Reports received here from Grindstone said the schooner had grounded early today in dense fog and taken fire. Her crew reached shore safely.

Platform Drafters Find Some of Issues Explosive As Nominations Near

TO VISIT BRITAIN

HON. W. D. EULER
Minister of Trade

After the session of Parliament at Ottawa ends it is expected several cabinet members will go to London to discuss revision of the Canada-Great Britain trade treaty. Besides Mr. Euler, Hon. C. A. Dunning, Finance Minister, and Hon. J. G. Gardiner probably will make the trip.

It is possible a conference will be held in London between the Australian and Canadian trade experts and representatives of any other Dominion Governments who may be in London.

Groups Backing Governor Alfred M. Landon of Kansas for Candidate for U.S. Presidency Fail to Bridge Gap Between Westerners and Easterners As Republican Delegates Assemble at First Session and Name Committees

Associated Press
Convention Hall, Cleveland, O., June 9.—In a perfunctory session which brought none of the party strife to the surface, the Republican National Convention opened today in a profusion of Landon sunflowers.

Committees on the platform and other subjects were set up and the members called to meet in an endeavor to reconcile, if possible, the many disputes under way.

Under the forceful but diplomatic guidance of Chairman Henry F. Fletcher, the routine was dispatched in less than an hour.

Buyers to Tell About Textiles

Federal Commission Inquiring Into Industry Calls Montreal Store Men

Canadian Press
Montreal, June 9.—Subpoenas were issued today for six buyers of Montreal department stores to appear as witnesses before the Turgeon textile commission. They will take the stand by the end of the week.

As today's sitting, W. M. Berry, assistant secretary of the Primary Textile Institute, filed numerous charts, tables and trade journals dealing with Japanese competition.

J. P. Lanctot, K.C., co-counsel with R. L. Kellock, K.C., of Toronto, for several textile companies, informed the commission a memorandum had been prepared to justify the claim of several companies Japanese competition was a serious threat to Canadian manufacturers.

RAYON GROWTH

Berry filed Nipponese charts and export tables, purporting to show Japan's total share of rayon production had jumped from 2 per cent in 1925 to 24 per cent in 1935. They showed Japan was second in production only to the United States in 1935. From 1925 to 1935, Berry said, production of Great Britain and the United States decreased while that of Japan mounted steadily.

Colonial Secretary Ormsby-Gore Tells British Commons of Continuing Violence

Canadian Press
London, June 9.—Authorities in Palestine are faced at present with a continuing series of acts of violence in many parts of the country, Rt. Hon. Walter Ormsby-Gore said today in his first statement to the House of Commons since his appointment as Colonial Secretary.

Rt. Hon. Herbert Morrison, Labor M.P., suggested it was the duty of the government to deal with the leaders of the disturbances.

Mr. Ormsby-Gore replied leaders of the strike in Palestine who were alleged to be responsible for crimes and acts of violence had been arrested and placed in concentration camps.

Canada May End Soviet Trade Bar

Euler Tells Commons Government Considering Lifting Embargo Which Has Stopped Certain Imports For Five Years

Canadian Press
Ottawa, June 9.—Resumption of Canadian trade with Russia was speculated on today by observers who pondered the declaration of Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce, in the House of Commons that the government was considering lifting the five-year-old embargo on importation of certain commodities from the Soviet Union.

"Rest your soul in patience for a little while," the minister yesterday evening urged A. A. Heaps, C.C.F. Winnipeg North, who questioned him on the embargo. "And watch results," Mr. Euler added.

FORM OF GOVERNMENT

The system of government was not the reason for continuing the embargo, Mr. Euler said, after the C.C.F. member had asserted that if Canada had ceased trading with Russia merely because it did not agree politically with the Soviet, it should be consistent and stop trading with Germany, Italy and Japan.

"It never was," interjected Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, whose government imposed the embargo in 1931.

A new turn was given the subject of Russo-Canadian trade in 1933, when G. G. Serkewitz proposed to exchange Canadian cattle, hides and other commodities for Russian petroleum and coal. The proposal did not materialize, but it gave rise to prolonged debate during the 1933 session.

Forest Fire Nears Anyox

Citizens of Anyox today were preparing to join forces with officials of the provincial forestry department from Prince Rupert in fighting a fire which broke out in the wooded area close to the city and threatened houses on the outskirts this morning.

According to provincial police radio advices received here the blaze was fairly well controlled near noon today, with Constable Quigley in charge of a force which is prepared to save the homes if the flames sweep nearer. Details of the cause of the outbreak were not received.

Toulouse Paralyzed; Elsewhere Labor Federation Strives to Make Strikers Keep Agreements

Associated Press
Paris, June 9.—New strikes spread rapidly through the provinces today as the Socialist government and the General Federation of Labor strove to get the strikers to observe agreements signed with employers.

Toulouse was paralyzed, with 15,000 workers in all branches of industry joining in a general strike.

Rouen faced a second night without street lights because of a strike in the gas plant.

In Bordeaux, department stores locked out 5,000 workers, refusing to accept their demands, while aviation and shipbuilding workers quit.

Factory workers in northern France continued their walkout in sympathy with 15,000 miners who were occupying their shafts.

BOMBS SET OFF IN BETHLEHEM

Canadian Press
Jerusalem, June 9.—Bombs exploded today in Bethlehem and Haifa as Arab-Jewish disorders continued.

The explosions in Bethlehem marked the first outbreak of trouble in that city. One of two dozen persons injured by a bomb in Jaffa died. No serious property damage was reported.

Early Potatoes On New York Market

Associated Press
New York, June 9.—The spring potato crop rolled into this market today, ending for the time being the likelihood of a "spud" famine, and topping prices from the peaks for several years established toward the end of last week.

New crop white potatoes, scores of carloads of them, have been rushed to the produce district from some half dozen states in the past two days, commission merchants reported.

Canadian Bonds As U.S. Nest Eggs

Associated Press
Boston, June 9.—Roger W. Babson, investment statistician, warned today as "a hedge against a Fascist government in the United States, I advise having a small nestegg in good Canadian securities which should be left in Canada in care of a Montreal Bank."

"Speaking before the Executive Club, Mr. Babson further warned his listeners 'as a hedge against the United States itself becoming involved in war I advise having money invested in real estate and companies located in the central portion of this country rather than in large cities. Irrespective of all neutrality resolutions, the United States would inevitably become involved in any war in which England is involved.'"

He predicted a bull market for about two years and "another period of prosperity, even though it may be short."

NEW B.N.A. ACT PROPOSAL MADE

Liberal Leader Asks Senate Approve Indirect Taxation By Provinces With Safe- guard Against Trade Dis- crimination

Ottawa, June 9.—Fresh efforts will be made in the Senate to obtain approval of the joint address to Westminster seeking certain amendments to the British North America Act. Hon. Raoul Dandurand, government leader in the red chamber, gave notice yesterday evening of an amendment he believed would meet the objections raised against that section of the address which proposes to legalize imposition of indirect taxation by the provinces.

His amendment, Senator Dandurand said, would stipulate regarding the powers of indirect taxation proposed for the provinces, that such taxation "must not favor or discriminate against the sale of any goods or articles, the growth, product or manufacture of any province or any country."

This, the veteran government leader thought, would meet the contention raised by Conservative senators and supported by three Liberals, that enactment of the proposed amendments would tend to set up tariff walls about each of the nine provinces.

The address, which was to serve the dual purpose of obtaining amendments to the constitution necessary to enable Hon. C. A. Dunning, Finance Minister, to set up tariff walls about each of the nine provinces.

The address, which was to serve the dual purpose of obtaining amendments to the constitution necessary to enable Hon. C. A. Dunning, Finance Minister, to set up tariff walls about each of the nine provinces.

taxation by the provinces, came from the House of Commons, where it passed without a division.

After Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader in the Senate, had objected to the latter phase of the address it was referred to the banking and commerce committee of the upper house. There a resolution by Senator Meighen, expressing it as the opinion of the committee that the section dealing with taxation be deleted, was adopted by a large majority.

Back in the Senate the committee's report, after a brief debate, was adopted by a vote of fifty to ten with three Liberal senators voting with the solid Conservative opposition.

Sensor Dandurand declared he had no mandate from the government to accept a report that would have the effect of removing half the address and, on the suggestion of Senator Meighen, said he would consult with his colleagues.

NO TARIFF WAR

Yesterday evening's notice of motion was a result of that conference. Today or Wednesday Senator Dandurand will move his amendment, which he hopes will satisfy those opposing the address that enlargement of provincial taxation rights will not have the effect of enabling the provinces to enter a tariff war with one another.

Amendments to the British North America Act must be sought through the agency of a joint address to the British Parliament at Westminster and it is understood every effort will be exhausted to obtain unanimous approval of both houses to the address as it is proposed to be amended.

RANSOM BILLS ARE RETURNED

New Jersey Prosecutor Receives $14,700 to Turn Over to Col. Lindbergh

Trenton, N.J., June 9.—Attorney General David T. Wilentz said yesterday evening that $14,700 Lindbergh ransom money had been turned over to Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck of Hunterdon County for return to representative of Col. Charles Lindbergh in New York. The $14,700 was found in possession of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted of the baby's murder and executed early in April. The rest of the $50,000 ransom, the prosecution contended, was used by Hauptmann in stock market and business transactions.

Yesterday as Captain William M. Carter assumed temporary command of the New Jersey State Police, Governor Harold G. Hoffman sent word from Cleveland, Ohio, that he had ousted Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf as head of the department because he had failed to obey orders of the chief executive and continue investigation of the Hauptmann case. It was the first time the governor had publicly expressed his reasons for failing to reappoint the man who headed the department from its appointment's name, Col. Mark O. Kimbrell, is now before the state senate.

"I was convinced and still am convinced that Hauptmann had accomplices," said the governor.

GOODS TO PAY OFF WAR DEBTS

Senator J. H. Lewis Predicts Britain, France and Italy Will Make Offer to U.S.

Washington, June 9.—Notification by Great Britain yesterday that the June 15 installment of its war debt to the United States would not be met coincided with a prediction on Capitol Hill that the British, French and Italian governments soon would make new proposals for settlement of the debts.

The prediction was made to reporters by Senator J. H. Lewis of Illinois, long a critic of war debt defaulting nations. State Department officials said, however, they had not heard of such a plan.

Sensor Lewis described a plan by which he said the three European powers would offer goods and services to the United States to be credited to their existing obligations.

A few hours earlier the State Department made public a note from the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, conveying notice to Secretary of State Hull that the $608,474,071 payment due next Monday would not be forthcoming.

The British note was the first word from the thirteen debtor nations, which will owe a combined total of $1,160,122,766 on June 15. General expectations were that all except Finland would default. Finland thus far has met all its payments.

B.C. Methods Set Standard For World, Entomologists Find

The Nicola Valley of British Columbia leads the world in fighting grasshoppers—the dreaded locust menace of ancient days.

According to word received by the Department of Agriculture, the method used there, of systematically poisoning the egg beds of the grasshoppers, has been approved by a world conference of entomologists at Cairo, Egypt, as being the most effective. Nicola is the only place where this has been done over a period of years. Each year men go out and distribute poison bait on the fields where the female grasshoppers have laid their eggs. The first thing the young grasshopper does is to take a bite of the poison.

Essentially, more improved methods of combating the grasshopper menace have resulted in a sharp reduction in the cost to the government, according to department records. In 1926 the government spent $37,000 to fight the hoppers. Under appropriations approved today a total of $5,000 will be advanced to grasshopper control committees in Nicola, Clinton, South Forks Creek, Oliver, Osoyoos and Kamloops areas. Early spring rains, it was explained, have reduced the hazard this year. Originally the committee asked for advances of $14,000. The farmers tax themselves for this expenditure and pay of the government advance.

OUTLAYS TOTAL $360,000

Vancouver, June 9.—The Vancouver Golden Jubilee committee will spend $260,000 from July 1 to August 25, it was announced here yesterday. An additional $100,000 will be spent by the Vancouver Exhibition Association from August 26 to September 7 for the Canada Pacific Exhibition.

COL. E. R. GREEN DIES

HINDU'S DEATH IS INVESTIGATED

Canadian Press

Vancouver, June 9.—Police today were investigating the possibility of murder in connection with the death of Bissa Singh, East Indian, who was found dead in his bed here on June 2.

An autopsy revealed the man had died from hemorrhage of the brain and the vital organs were sent to the police bureau of science where, it was reported, they were found to contain bichloride of mercury which could have been a contributory cause of the brain hemorrhage.

Bissa Singh was reported to have gone to the home of a neighbor on June 1 for his dinner, which he took home to eat.

Police also report the man was treated by a doctor six years ago for poisoning, apparently the result of a plot to take his life. An inquest into the circumstances surrounding the death will be held, but no date has yet been set.

New U.S. Social Legislation Proposal

Washington, June 9.—A constitutional amendment to empower the United States Congress "to regulate agriculture, commerce, industry and labor" was proposed yesterday by Chairman Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, of the Senate judiciary committee.

"If additional power be needed by Congress in order to enact social legislation, we must secure authority from the source of governmental power—the people themselves—by constitutional amendment," he said.

The capillary tubes of the human body, placed end to end, would span the Atlantic.

The By-election

ONE OF THE MOST INTERESTING parliamentary contests Victoria has experienced for many years came to its end yesterday with another personal triumph for Hon. S. F. Tolmie. As a member of the Conservative opposition at Ottawa he left the federal field in 1928 to lead the provincial party. He will now return to the national capital and again take his seat to the left of Mr. Speaker. His election does not alter the strength of the various parties in the House of Commons.

As the final count stood last night, Dr. Tolmie is credited with 5,980 votes, Professor King Gordon 5,886, and Mr. C. J. McDowell 5,726. The combined vote of the two unsuccessful candidates totaled 11,612, or an anti-Conservative majority of 5,632. This, of course, is by the way. The Conservative party's standard-bearer led his nearest opponent by ninety-four and the Liberal by 254. The significance of the figures, however, lies in the fact that with a much smaller vote than at the general election last October, the anti-Conservative majority was only 628 less, the total-Conservative vote showing a decrease of 1,525.

This newspaper is naturally disappointed that Mr. McDowell did not head the poll, but it extends its hearty congratulations to Dr. Tolmie and compliments with equal heartiness both Mr. McDowell and Professor King Gordon on the gallant fight they waged. The campaign was a short one and all three candidates and their electioneering forces did a very strenuous job of work. It should be placed on the record, moreover, that from the outset until the end good humor prevailed; personalities were conspicuous by their absence.

It is perhaps unnecessary to point out that the contest just concluded was in nowise a test of the policies of the government in office at Ottawa. No national issues were involved. Indeed, in many respects the platform material used by Mr. McDowell and Dr. Tolmie differed in no material degree. Both were sincere in their desire to be of service to the people and the city of Victoria and surrounding communities. We still think that the electors would have been a great deal wiser, however, if they had selected one to represent them who would be friendly to the government rather than to select one whose party duty it will be to oppose much of the administration's programme. This is not to say that Dr. Tolmie will not fulfill his promise to do everything he possibly can for his constituency. It is suggested that at times he may not get that sympathetic consideration which a government supporter might. There is nothing extravagant in this suggestion; we are merely bearing in mind the general parliamentary usage in all English-speaking countries.

As we have already said, Dr. Tolmie has scored a personal triumph, and it must be affording him considerable satisfaction in that it helps him to retrieve himself from the loss he suffered in the last provincial general election in 1933. And it may not be too much to say that his fellow Conservatives will admit that no other candidate carrying their colors could have achieved the success which is now Dr. Tolmie's. Moreover, he is entitled to regard the result as a fine testimony from his fellow citizens to the high regard in which they hold the man who has served them in public office over a long period of time.

This newspaper hopes that good health will attend Victoria's new member of the House of Commons as he goes to take up his duties.

Gen. Stuart

THERE WILL BE MANY IN THIS city who will have learned with regret the passing, in an automobile accident on the mainland on Sunday, of Brigadier-General J. Duff Stuart. Vancouver will feel the loss acutely of one of its best-known pioneers, for General Stuart had lived there for nearly half a century and had taken an active and practical part in its development from the small-town stage to its present status of third largest city in Canada.

General Stuart was a man of many parts. The firm of Clark and Stuart for many years claimed his active interest in manufacturing, while for a considerable period he had demonstrated his belief in the natural resources of this province by investing extensively in the mining industry. As a military man of repute he was known all over the Dominion, while on several occasions he displayed his prowess on the ranges at Bileys at the Dominion rifle meets. The Canadian team at two of these meets was under his command.

In the early months of the Great War General Stuart was in command of the Vernon camp, following which he took over the important position of District Officer Commanding at Work Point and discharged these duties for the remainder of the war period. It was then he became well known in Victoria. While always a strict disciplinarian, his many fine personal qualities and cheerful outlook on life made him popular with all those under his charge, and his friends in Victoria were legion.

No Mean Achievement

WE THINK THE C.C.F. PEOPLE can find much to support their claim to a moral victory in yesterday's by-election results.

It must be said that it was no mean achievement for an outsider such as Mr. King Gordon to come into a conservative community like Victoria and poll the vote he did. He was in contest, on the one hand, with Dr. Tolmie, an old-time Victorian of extraordinary personal popularity in this riding and with a long and honorable career in high public offices of his country; on the other hand, with Mr. McDowell, another local man—highly successful in his own business and devoted to the best interests of the community in which he was born—running with all the advantages that accrue to a candidate with the backing of a government strongly entrenched in power. Yet, Mr. Gordon led the latter by some 254 votes and came within ninety-four votes of the former.

At the same time it should be said that it is probable that Mr. Gordon polled the maximum C.C.F. vote in this community, in proportion to the total vote polled. The vote for a C.C.F. candidate less outstanding would undoubtedly have been considerably less.

Voting Trends

THE DETAILED VOTE BY POLLS in yesterday's by-election, published in another page of this issue, is worth studying. It reveals the extent to which the political preferences of Victorians vary according to the district in which they live.

In James Bay, Victoria West, and generally in that part of the city north of Fort Street, Mr. Gordon and Mr. McDowell alternated in leading the polls, with Dr. Tolmie in many cases trailing far behind. Esquimalt showed little consistency, with polls going indiscriminately to each of the three candidates. In the Fairfield district Dr. Tolmie began to show up, alternating with the other two. But it was in the Rockland Avenue, Oak Bay and Uplands districts that Dr. Tolmie came into his own. In these he swept up to large pluralities which carried him to victory.

Victoria may continue in the habit of electing Conservatives to the House of Commons, but the trend of the majorities it has been according them continues sharply downwards. Dr. Tolmie on his first appeal to the electors here in 1917 won by 8,764. In 1921 he won by 2,452, in 1925 by 2,309, in 1926 by 2,780. In the 1930 election the Conservative majority for Mr. Plunkett was 2,016; last October it dropped to 1,023; yesterday for Dr. Tolmie it fell to ninety-four. The Conservative majority last October would have shown a greater decrease or would have been wiped out altogether had it not been for the inclusion of Oak Bay in the Victoria federal riding under the redistribution effected at Ottawa. Then, just as yesterday, it was the heavy Conservative vote in Oak Bay that saved the day for the Conservatives.

But although Dr. Tolmie won yesterday, there were just about twice as many persons in Victoria, including Oak Bay, who cast non-Conservative votes as those who cast Conservative votes.

At Full Boil

THE POLITICAL POT SOUTH OF the line is now at full boil. Republicans in their national convention this week in Cleveland will name their candidate to oppose the Democratic party's nominee in the presidential election next November. The Democrats will meet soon in Philadelphia to go through the formality of nominating President Roosevelt for reelection for a second term.

Although there is no Labor party in United States, the Labor vote may hold the balance of power next November. Both the great parties have been manoeuvring for it. There are indications that during the last four years it has been consolidating and becoming conscious of its political strength. This is particularly true in the most populous states in the east.

The situation in New York and Pennsylvania illustrates the potential power of the Labor vote. In Pennsylvania the United Mine Workers are very strong and it is expected their leader, John Lewis, can lay at least 150,000 votes on the line whenever he commands. In 1932 the Republicans won the thirty-six electoral votes from the state by a popular vote of 1,453,540 to 1,295,948. Swinging of a block of 150,000 votes might well change the results. In New York, the Democrats won the state's forty-seven electoral votes in 1932, with a popular vote of 2,534,959 to the Republicans' 1,937,963. Those figures are close enough to make the voting strength of some of the big unions a deciding factor. The garment makers unions in New York City alone muster more than 200,000 votes.

The eighty-three electoral votes New York and Pennsylvania together hold in the electoral college of 531 votes could easily turn the election in case the voting throughout the rest of the country was anywhere near close. For this reason, both the major parties will be unusually ardent this year in their courting of the Labor vote.

Just as Dr. Tolmie had said, it was a horse race.

The tragic accident which took the life of General Duff Stuart is another reminder that "Soft Shoulders" is a highway sign which makes it easy to avoid danger spots. Better too many of them than too few.

Speaking of youth trends, it should not be overlooked that neither Dr. Tolmie nor Mr. McDowell was able to attract the nurses at the Jubilee Hospital, who went overwhelmingly for Mr. Gordon.

Loose Ends

The Squashers and the Gulpers are divided on a sacred principle—justice moves in a series of steps. Mr. Mencken is still at it. —And another Victorian libel is dispelled.

SQUASH

THE AIR is so full of controversy these days, people are so used to disagreement and uncertainty about everything, that you dare not state an opinion, however minor and unimportant, unless you are prepared to fight for it and impose sanctions for it and call out the League of Nations, which will consider the question around next November and postpone it until the spring.

This profound thought is inspired by strawberries. A few days ago I wrote that strawberries should be squashed before being eaten. I did not regard it as a very important statement. I said it impartially. I hope, without partisanship or political bias. I thought it was one thing you could say during a by-election here which would not be interpreted as Liberal, Conservative or C.C.F. I thought, indeed, it was about the only thing you could say at a time like that without being accused of accepting campaign funds from one of the three parties, or from Moscow.

Also, no. I have received two letters on the subject, one from Victoria and one from Duncan. They both denounce my honest opinion. The Victorian says that squashing ruins strawberries. He says it squashes out all the flavor into the cream so that instead of full-flavored berries you have half-flavored cream and berries and cream are both ruined.

Apart from the vulgarity of squashing berries, says the man from Duncan, with a snooty wiggle of his good old Quamichan moustache and that glorious accent which grows in the lush valley of the Cowichan, squashing is injurious to the digestion. Berries, he says, should be swallowed quickly; gulped, like oysters, not chewed. He adds that he never heard of chewing a strawberry until he came to Canada.

You see, therefore, that the world, by and large, is not divided into Liberals and Conservatives or Leftists and Rightists, as had been generally supposed. One of the great fundamental divisions is that lying between Squashers and Gulpers. It is a cause worth fighting for. Political parties often fight elections on issues much less sensible. Governments have been formed on programmes much less constructive than Squashing or even Gulping. Ministries and oppositions have been divided over policies much less formidable. Wars have been fought on questions far less important.

In "Gulliver's Travels," as I recall, a certain kingdom was rent by civil war over the question whether a boiled egg should be opened at the large or small end, but in our civilization no such vital question is ever determined by a war. Only a series of new questions are left for settlement by more wars. If we could devote ourselves to Squashing and Gulping, something we can understand, the world would be easier to live in. The issue between the Squash and the Gulp is just about as old as the hills. Many of the unemployed, in fact, have lived better during the past four years than they would have lived had they been at war.

PROPHETS

MR. HENRY L. MENCKEN has lately added this to his long observation of public affairs: "The depression now dragging to a reluctant close was very real all over Europe, but in this country it was largely imaginary. . . . Many of the unemployed, in fact, have lived better during the past four years than they would have lived had they been at war."

Not long ago, Mr. Mencken, in an article quite comic in its bitterness, said the Republicans could elect a Chinaman as President against Roosevelt. Now, admittedly, Roosevelt is likely to be re-elected over anyone the Republicans can nominate.

But the continuing absurdity of Mr. Mencken's statements will not spoil his reputation; rather enhance it. The case of Mr. Mencken and Mr. Shaw shows you that no matter what a man says he will not be believed if he can say it cleverly and shrilly enough.

Mr. Mencken and Mr. Shaw have been saying absurd things for generations now, belittling them through magazines or screaming them through keyholes and they are almost universally believed because they are usually funny. Also, they are nearly always destructive. They generally abuse somebody more useful to society than they are. This always pleases the public, which likes nothing better than to see its useful and sincere members humiliated.

It makes us all feel a little higher in the scale when we see our betters dragged lower. The sudden collapse of a large building is always more exciting than its slow construction. Mr. Shaw and Mr. Mencken have capitalized this quirk in our nature and have done very well by it. Their highest form of comedy is to attack the economic system which has made them both wealthy, and the public loves that, too. It is one of the most successful rackets known.

LIBEL

ONE OF THE LIBELS about Victoria, which you can comfortably disdain, is the notion that our business people are slow, that they lack the energy and push of the business people in Vancouver and other large places. If you have ever dropped a confidential hint to a friend that you might buy a new car and observed the swarm of salesmen who will surround your house and office before nightfall, by a kind of mass instinct like the communion of the ants, or perhaps by a secret system of communication like the drums of the African natives; or, if you have ever got into the warm clutches of the life insurance salesman, you know that the salesmanship of our Victorian business people is the equal of any in the world. Sometimes I think it is worse.

This is just by way of scholarly introduction to a little story, quite true in all details, which I heard today. One of the largest insurance men in town (in volume of sales, not in physical capacity), was instructing one of his younger salesmen how you do it. He said he could sell a life insurance policy to someone between Douglas Street and Government Street. He said he could sell it to the first man they met.

The first man they met was looking into a store window. The eminent insurance man said to him: "My friend, would you like to have $10,000 when you're fifty-five?" The man looked around blankly and said nothing. "I said," said the insurance man, "would you like to have $10,000 when you're fifty-five or $15,000 when you're sixty?" The man looked at him with sad eyes and pointed to his own ears and shook his head. "He's deaf," said the insurance man to his young pupil.

Then, to the amazement of the pupil, the insurance man began to talk on his hands in the deaf and dumb language, and instantly the eyes of the deaf man lit up. The two were soon talking with animation on their fingers. The poor man was both deaf and dumb, with little defence against life insurance. Within ten minutes he had agreed to buy an insurance policy. This perfectly true story shows you how the pushfulness and capacity of our Victorian business men has been libeled in other various places.

THE JACK KING CASE

To the Editor:—The John Howard Society craves the privilege of your columns to express certain points of view regarding the case of Jack King upon which so much has been written during the last two weeks. We feel that you are rendering a valuable service by allowing the public to debate the issues raised by the sentencing of this young man to seven years and ten lashes. It is not our intention to enter this debate, we feel that the purpose of it has already been served and that the first letter, written on their own initiative by three citizens who are members of his society, has been entirely justified. Our main purpose is to help men who have actually been in prison and we have a record of achievement of which we are proud. But another aim which brings us into the sphere of the King case is also ours. We wish to stop crime at its source or in its early stages. We do not, as some may suppose, interfere in the purely legal process of trial and punishment. It is our desire to get behind the open breach of our moral standards and find the causes of early delinquency. The case of a young offender interests us because it represents an opportunity to do something to restore the life to a better way, so that it has become hardened. Because of the known history of our hardened criminals we feel that long imprisonment for a youth is apt to make him such. During his confinement he is associating with men who, without trying, influence his life so that the early wrong beginning is almost certain to become habitual.

It may be assumed that the purpose of our penal system is the cure of crime. And it is only right to inquire in times when crime seems to be on the increase whether this purpose is being achieved. If we are failing it is not because people are more inclined toward crime but because we are not meeting the extraordinary conditions of modern life by methods that match these conditions and prevent them from leading in crime. Particularly when we deal with young offenders do we seem most to fail. Our method, of course, as a system of punishment, is not effective as a system of cure.

It is for this reason that we should turn away from criticizing the court in a particular case or calling down its wrath upon those who do, and see if something cannot be done to improve our method. With plenty of goodwill for the young offenders our courts seem powerless to express it. We give them no option. We bring reason to bear upon some spheres of our common life but allow others to be controlled by motives and methods no longer rational or effective. Fortunately we have the example of Britain where for twenty-five years young offenders have been treated in homes especially designed to turn them into honest and efficient persons. Let us quote from an editorial in The London Times Weekly Edition, April 30.

"The brutalities and inhumanities of criminal punishments of a century ago yielded gradually to a more enlightened theory of deterrence, and toward the end of last century the theory of deterrence underwent a change and has been superseded by a theory of reformation. A positive theory of reformation for one that was negative. Changes in criminal law, in prison regulations, and in the very purposes of imprisonment are a reflection of a better civilization and a more diffused well-being in the community at large. These changes have themselves reacted upon social life. The increase of humanity in prison treatment has not led to an increase of criminals. Criminals have changed as well as prisons, and the modern delinquent is not confirmed in evil habits by the greater leniency of treatment after conviction. Leniency alone might do no good, but it is combined with a rehabilitating type of discipline and training in because such a reaction is the last expedient of desperation, to which society should not force its members. On behalf of the executive of the John Howard Society, CECIL S. QUAIN, President, C. G. MacKENZIE, Secretary, D. M. BAILEY, June 9, 1936.

BOWS AND ARROWS

To the Editor:—To strangers or newcomers in British Columbia the "Our Defenceless Coast" letter of J. A. Phillips, honorary secretary of the Victoria branch of the Navy League of Canada, must be an eye-opener; but to most of us who have been on that coast for a quarter of a century or more it is as "old, old, story." On transfer from New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Military Districts, I arrived in Victoria May 24, 1911, for duty as staff captain to the late Col. R. L. Wadmore, then D.O.C. M.D. 11. Having remained in Africa after the South African War, and made the Russo-Japanese War study for my promotion examinations, I was full of the lesson in coast defence afforded by the Japanese assault and capture of Port Arthur. According to Sir Ian Hamilton's deductions, well set out in his popular book on that war, the Japanese naval operations in that series of engagements forever upset any confidence in the efficiency of close-in fortifications for ports and naval depots.

One of the first questions put to me by my new commanding officer was: "Where should these 92 guns be mounted?" (Two that had been lying for years in the ordnance yard at Esquimalt.) After glancing at the ordnance maps and charts, I put my finger on Church Hill, on Beachy Head, just at the bend of the Straits. The heavy guns at Port Arthur had proved a mere shell target, drawing long-distance enemy fleet fire on the harbor and navy yard. After a rough survey made in collaboration with my friend the late Captain H. R. Selfe, who was then my district signal officer, the proposed site was shown to be practicable.

Nothing was done till the Great War came on, with the ensuing "German fleet menace." Then they were mounted—not ten miles out in the Straits as recommended to headquarters, but on Signal Hill, where every shot passing over would fall into our fleet anchorage, Esquimalt Harbor!

Prospects For Olympics Poor

Harry Maloney Tells Gyros Jewish Opposition and European Unrest Harmful

"Things are not going too well from the standpoint of the Olympic Games," Harry Maloney, director of minor sports at Stanford University, told the Gyro Club at its luncheon yesterday. The factors which he saw against the success of the Berlin contests this year were the opposition of Jews in the United States and unrest in Europe.

There was still a lot of controversy as to whether the United States would participate fully, said Mr. Maloney. In the past Jewish capital in the United States had contributed generously to the games. This year, with $300,000 needed, there was not much prospect of assistance from this source, which considered that Hitler had not played the game with the Jewish race.

Mr. Maloney did not think France or England would send their full quota of athletes because of political difficulties. They had not got much time to give thought to the Olympics. If the United States participated fully, Mr. Maloney prophesied that they would come out on top, because of their great reserve of fine athletes, with Germany second and Sweden or Finland third. He believed Italy and France would drop far below their high places in the 1932 games.

Canada's prospects were excellent, he said. In the 1932 games Canada, with her small population, had come tenth out of twenty-six nations.

AUSTRALIA'S HOPE
Mr. Maloney believed the 1944 or 1948 Olympic would be held in Australia, and he told the club that the United States Olympic committee had pledged its support to Australia in this connection.

He said there were excellent facilities in Melbourne and Sydney for the staging of the contests, and that the government of that Dominion would give its full support.

Mr. Maloney had a great deal to say about Australia, in the light of his observations during an extended visit there recently.

After speaking of the great part played by Australia in the Great War, he said: "It is any wonder that that country is prosperous and is pushing off the depression? I think Australia is on the eve of a great wave of prosperity that it has not known before. You cannot keep a generation of men of that type down. Their chins will always be up and their shoulders back."

Mr. Maloney was in Adelaide on the day of the funeral of King George V. He told of the dead silence in the city and the feeling of reverence and loyalty which he had seen there, 12,000 miles away from the place where the King was being buried.

"In this hurry and bustle it takes things like that to bring you up with a halt, and to make you look in the glass and ask yourself where you are going and what you are doing. A person who studies the British Empire must realize that there is something behind that flag of yours that makes things worth while," Mr. Maloney said.

Suburbanites Annex Honors

Royal Oak Boy Scout Troop Awarded Trophy For Scout Supremacy at Rally

The Royal Oak Boy Scout troop is today in possession of the District Challenge Cup, emblematic of supremacy in scout work in Victoria and district. Compiling twenty points in the competitions, which were the most keenly contested during recent years, the Royal Oak boys annexed the honors at the annual rally staged on the Heywood Avenue grounds Saturday afternoon.

Lieutenant-Governor Eric Hamber took the salute as the scouts marched past his reviewing base, after which they formed their scout horsemanship and listened to his address. "Scouting gives you a clean outlook on life," Mr. Hamber said. "Always keep your scout law in mind: do your duty to God and king and help all others at all times." His Honor advised.

"You, whose lives are being molded, always keep in mind your vows made in scouting," he urged. His Honor pointed out that it is thirty-six years since this fine movement was inaugurated, as more or less an experiment, and since it has grown in leaps and bounds until this excellent work is now being undertaken in every country in the world today.

Four points separated the four leading troops in the contest. Cadboro Bay Sea Scouts took over the runner-up position with a total of eighteen points, while St. Mary's was third with seventeen and Sidney fourth with sixteen. Cadboro Bay Sea Scouts won the pioneering work trophy. Their contribution was the erection of a derrick. This derrick was slung up in an overnight camp and was used to haul a bicycle around.

A goodly gathering of parents and friends of the scouts were present and watched with enthusiasm the fine way in which the youngsters displayed their individual talents in scout work. Mr. Hamber presented the senior and junior trophies to St. Mary's and Sidney troops respectively.

Major H. B. Hunter, acting district commissioner, and Freeman King were in charge of the competitions.

Slate Returned By Dental Men

Dr. C. N. Westwood Is Again President of Victoria Society

Its entire slate of officers was last night re-elected by the Victoria Dental Society at a dinner meeting at the Empress Hotel. The officers are: President, Dr. C. N. Westwood; vice-president, Dr. P. J. Rumball; secretary-treasurer, Dr. J. D. Johnson; and executive, Dr. E. W. Hetherington. Dr. Hugh Clarke and Dr. W. N. Gunning.

Women Favor Education Programme On Cancer

National Council Suggest "Health Education Week"

Halifax, June 9.—The National Council of Women, in annual convention here, went on record today as favoring an educational programme in regard to cancer and the setting aside of one week each October to be known as "Health Education Week" during which each community would emphasize its own health problem.

The cancer resolution, moved on behalf of the Saskatchewan Provincial Council by Dr. Mildred F. Newell of Edmonton and Mrs. A. McConnell of Toronto, passed the convention last night.

Mrs. Wesley Bundy, Toronto, joined Dr. Newell in moving another resolution that the National Council of Women congratulate the Dominion Government on its policy of calling together the provincial ministers of health in order to work out a national health policy for Canada.

The convention passed the resolution that the National Council of Women congratulate the Dominion Government on its policy of calling together the provincial ministers of health in order to work out a national health policy for Canada.

At the final meeting of the Local Council of Women for the season yesterday afternoon, Mrs. E. Godson, convener of the education committee, gave a comprehensive report of the technical courses now offered at the Victoria High School.

The report was prepared following the resolution presented by Langford W.I. at an earlier meeting urging the establishment of a technical school on Vancouver Island.

Mrs. Spofford gave a report of the Provincial Council's reaction to the suggestion that the fees from the Local Council's meeting be reduced.

The Provincial executive appointed a committee to look into the matter and report on the whole question at the September meeting.

As a result, the proposal made at the last meeting by the sub-executive that the Victoria council withdraw from provincial unless the fees be reduced was held in abeyance, and at the September meeting the Local Council will consider the recommendations made by the provincial committee concerning affiliation fees etc.

Mrs. Spofford reviewed the deliberations of the Provincial Council meeting. One resolution passed was to the effect that the money in the provincial treasury be earmarked for the benefit of the summer school.

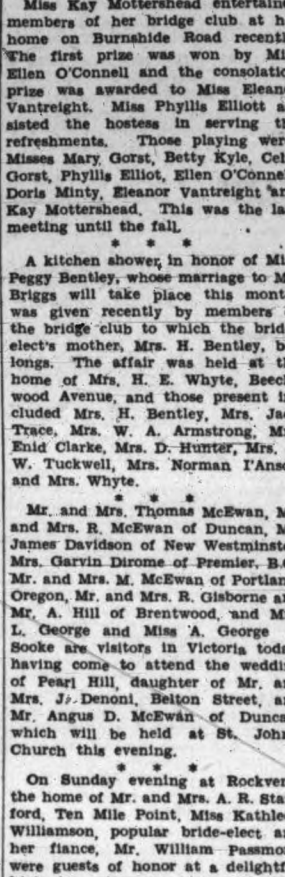

The plan of a candle-lit cake in honor of her approaching birthday, presented with a complimentary speech by the hostess, Mrs. McCurdy, the cake was cut by Dr. Ryan and served to the guests. Dr. Henrietta Anderson, in a characteristically inspiring manner, proposed the vote of thanks to the hostess, this being endorsed with hearty applause.

Miss Alice Semmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Semmes of Baltimore, Md. and Victoria, B.C., engagement to Mr. Lowell P. Mickelwait of Seattle was announced in March, has set July 18 as the date of her marriage. The wedding will take place at 12:30 o'clock at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, and will be followed by a reception at "Robinwood," the plan of a candle-lit cake in honor of her approaching birthday.

Appeal for World Peace Made at Annual Meeting of Christian Scientists

Boston, Mass., June 9.—An appeal to Christian Scientists to work for the demonstration of world peace, marked the annual meeting today of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Election of Mrs. Elizabeth Cadwell Tomlinson of Boston as president of The Mother Church was announced. She succeeds Dr. Frank C. Colby.

The addition of twenty-two new churches and eight new university organizations, making a total of 2,751 branches of The Mother Church and fifty-five college and university organizations, was announced by the Department of Branches and Practitioners.

Approximately 6,000 Christian Scientists, representing every state in the Union and practically every civilized nation in the world, attended the meeting.

Introducing the theme of world peace, William F. McKennie, for the past year chairman of the board of directors, told the audience, "There is rising demand in the hearts of men for freedom and justice. Can it be met by fair dealing? This requires self-government, does it not? Instead of battling with others to set them right, let a man become right himself and influence his neighbor by his good example."

C. Augustus Norwood, manager committees on publication, disclosed that through the publication of religious items and the radio-casting of religious programmes and news comments from The Christian Science Monitor, friendly relationships have been established with about 2,000 newspapers and 300 radio stations. Through these contacts some 150,000 friendly and constructive news items were published, while more than 6,000 religious programmes and 60,000 radio-casts of Monitor news were put on the air during the year.

Miss Margaret Murray Glenn as chairman of the Board of Lectureship disclosed that members of the Board of Lectureship carried Christian Science messages to the four corners of the globe, delivering 3,111 lectures with an attendance of approximately 8,000,000 persons. Ten lectures were given in Africa, fifty-nine in Australasia, seventeen in Hawaii, China, Japan, Java, Ceylon and India, one in the City of Mexico, seventeen in South America, nine in Bermuda, Canal Zone and West Indies, 225 in Great Britain and Ireland, 104 in continental Europe and Scandinavia, and 2,699 in Canada, the United States and Alaska.

Speaking for the publishing society, Fred M. Lamson, trustee, said, "Our business condition is satisfactory and there has been a healthy growth in advertising income and in the subscription lists of all the periodicals. The new year's issue of the Christian Science Publishing House, and in the last eleven months approximately 120,000 visitors came to view the new manparium, among them persons from many lands."

WHY ROMAN MEAL FOR SUMMER?

ONE might as well ask: Why fruits and vegetables for summer? Yet no one with any food knowledge would ask such a question. It is well known that fruits and vegetables are our best food, although many do not know why, and for long no one knew why. Now we know it is because the minerals in fruits and vegetables maintain the blood in a pure and normally liquid state. Such blood flows freely from the hot interior of the body into the fine blood vessels in the skin, dilates and engorges them and opens wide the mouths of the skin glands and thus dissipates the body's heat into the environment.

Roman Meal, Bekus-Puddy, Lishus and Kofy-Sub do the same thing in the same way and aid the action of fruits and vegetables in keeping up bodily and mental vigor on the hottest days.

Formerly I was literally done for, "all in" when the temperature reached the high eighties. Now, thanks to Roman Meal and Kofy-Sub, vegetables and fruits, practically all eaten uncooked, I can and often do sit six to seven hours in the nude, in the blazing sun, on the flat roof, writing hour after hour without a sign of fatigue.

If you suffer from heat try making your summer diet one-third Roman Meal—Bekus Puddy—Lishus with Kofy-Sub or water only as beverage, one-third vegetables and fruits, mostly uncooked, the vegetables mostly those grown above ground, the other one-third standard foods, cutting down on meat, fats, oils, sugar, candy, syrup and starchy foods, all "heating" foods. If sweet is needed for cereals, choose raisins or dates and chew the cereals well. Take a reasonable amount of exercise, especially walking. Do this and I'm

DIRECT QUESTIONS WILL ENCOURAGE CHILD TO LIE

Whether true or not, for nearly a hundred years the classic example of the unusual answer of a child has been George Washington's reply to his accusing parent, "Yes, father, I cut down the cherry tree with my little hatchet." The ordinary child would have seen instantly that he had misbehaved and was about to merit a punishment and would have given the glib denial designed to ward it off.

Lying has any number of causes, many of which are discussed in the leaflet, "Lying, Its Causes and Correction," which may be had for a self-addressed and three-cent stamped envelope sent to Myrtle Meyer Eldred.

BUSINESS CLUB HEAR SPEAKER

Dr. Olga Jardine Tells of Recent Legislation in New Zealand

Dr. Olga Jardine gave a fascinating talk on New Zealand before the Business and Professional Women's Club at their supper meeting in the Y.W.C.A. yesterday evening. Mrs. K. Farquharson presided, the unavoidable absence of the president.

Dr. Jardine sketched the history of New Zealand and the characteristics of its people, of whom 75 per cent were native-born New Zealanders, she noted. She touched upon its industries and its politics, stating that under the new Labor government returned to power last year, New Zealand had instituted a nationally-owned bank and the right to issue its own currency, thus doing away with private ownership of banks—and was the first country to take such a step.

Reference was also made to the state-owned utilities and institutions, and to the excellent and progressive educational system in vogue. Mrs. H. P. Hodges moved the vote of thanks to the speaker.

Miss Margaret Clay gave an interesting resume of the Washington State Federation B. and P.W. convention held at Spokane last week, when she was a guest speaker. She gave a brief review of the deliberations and addresses given by notable speakers, and told of the spontaneous and beautiful tribute paid by the state president to the late Miss Bay Wigley. The Federation also sent a handsome donation to the memorial fund. Miss S. Pogson won the lovely water color given by Mrs. Willis to aid the memorial fund.

The musical part of last night's programme was contributed by Miss Nickerson, who delighted the gathering with a piano solo.

Members were reminded of Miss Kate Brown's invitation to a picnic at her home on Saturday afternoon. Those going are requested to notify their captains as soon as possible.

Council Holds Annual Meeting

Victoria Religious Education Group Names Officers

The annual meeting of the Victoria Religious Education Council was held at the Y.W.C.A. yesterday evening with the president, Rev. J. H. A. Warr, in the chair.

The reports from the departments of the council had a most successful year. With receipts from the Sunday schools and the special financial campaign the treasurer, H. Simpson, was able to present a balanced budget for the year with a small balance on hand. This was a gratifying report to members of the council, and gave great promise of being able to complete some greatly desired extension work in the coming year.

Miss E. Middleton read the children leaders' council report as prepared by Miss Lillian Parfitt. The report presented the girls' council report, the girls' council was reported on by Miss M. Beveridge, and Mr. Warr reported for the boys' work board.

From these reports it was learned that a general survey of the local churches was made during the year and that considerable constructive help had been given to the Christian Education leaders of the city, with twenty-six churches being served representing the following denominations: Anglican, Salvation Army, United, Baptist, Chinese, Japanese and Presbyterian.

During the summer a girls' C.G. I.T. camp under the direction of Miss Lillian Parfitt will be held at Olinta Lake from July 17 to 22. The boys' camp under the direction of the Y.M.C.A. with Vivian Shoemaker in charge, will be held from July 3 to 16. The provincial leaders' camp is to be held at Ocean Park from July 18 to 28 under the supervision of the Provincial Religious Education Council, with Rev. A. McKay directing.

The election of officers resulted in F. W. Dyer being made the president for the coming year, with the following members on the executive: Miss Lillian Parfitt re-elected as secretary, Herbert Simpson appointed treasurer pro tem, and Miss Ida Tatham elected assistant secretary.

An interesting event of the evening was the presentation of a beautiful picture of Mount Baker to the retiring president, Rev. J. H. A. Warr, as a token of appreciation by the council. Miss E. Middleton and Miss L. Parfitt expressed the good wishes of the council.

Mr. Warr said he hoped the council would progress to even greater success during the coming year.

St. Barnabas Fete — On Thursday, June 11, the W.A. and the Ladies' Guild of St. Barnabas Church will hold a summer fete to celebrate St. Barnabas Day. They hope that all the friends of St. Barnabas Church will attend, to ensure making the day a real success. In the grounds of the church there will be many attractive stalls, ice cream and candies. In the hall tea will be served during the afternoon and house-houses arranged. In the evening there will be many added attractions, coconut shies, Aunt Sally and conjuring by Frank Merryfield, the Cornish wizard. There will also be hot dogs and refreshments.

Youngsters Will Dance on Friday

Small youngsters are always one of the bright spots on any dance recital, and for her programme at the Royal Victoria Theatre on Friday evening, Florence Clough has worked in a large group of tiny tots in several numbers.

One of the numbers that will probably prove the most colorful and the daintiest is the Rainbow Ballet. In this group will be thirty-two small children, who have been eagerly training for their parts during recent weeks.

Another group of youngsters, from six to seven years of age, will be seen in tap and modern jazz dances. It is amazing the way these small children take to the tap dances. They love their work and practice for hours a day. As a result they are very efficient, and once they secure a sense of rhythm, they find few obstacles along the way to perfection.

"Folly and Farewell"

By MARIE BLIZARD

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Linda Bourne, twenty years old, pretty and socially prominent in the little town of Newtown, is left almost penniless after the sudden death of her father.

She becomes friendly with Peter Gardiner, political reporter, and shows him a scenario she has written. Peter gets Linda a job as society reporter.

Dix Carter, with whom Linda is in love, tells her he is going abroad for a year to study singing. He says, "Will you wait for me?" and she answers, "I'll wait forever."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XI

Linda never spent a summer like that one. She was a working girl now, and there was no more traveling to spend weeks house partying on Long Island or the Cape with school friends. There were no more shopping trips for lacy evening frocks and slim, plain little hand-made sports dresses. There was no more roadster, no more "cottage for a month" to repay summer social obligations.

Linda was a working girl with limited time and limited money. The invitations came from the east, and Linda Jennings begged, pleaded and coaxed Linda to "quit that foolish job and come and have a good time."

But Linda was having a good time. She turned out daily, worked anxiously with the paper's photographer and learned the thrill of a good job well done. She was in her ink-permeated office from early morning until late those summer nights.

And she had fun. Fun with Pete Gardiner. One time they went to a carnival, and Pete proudly presented her with his trophies—a horrible wriggling doll, a cotton navajo blanket, two canes and a huge box of inedible candy. She arrayed them on the mantel of the library so that he could see them and review his prowess in fields not quite athletic. But they had athletics, too.

Pete learned to play tennis. There was no servant to keep the Bourne courts in order, but Pete and Linda made a game of it. Pete taught Linda to swim and, laughing, spatting, choking, she clung to him, not knowing that to touch her was a form of sweet agony for him. Seeing her day by day, her head bent seriously over the smudgy proof sheets, Pete carried her in his heart through the nights when he called himself a fool.

He didn't know about Dix, but he did know about Linda, and he told himself he "wasn't getting to first base." Lots of girls had made it clear to Pete how they felt about him and Linda showed none of the symptoms. But she spent almost all her free time with him.

There were heavenly things to do that Pete had never known before. And things Pete knew about that Linda had not experienced. There were the concerts given by a local symphony that they drove miles to hear, sitting on a hillside in the cool sweet air with the stars above them, thinking their separate, rapturous thoughts as the music swelled and wrapped them in its beauty.

There was a time that they went to a state fair and judged the hops and jollies with impartial if inexperienced judgment. There was the time they spent a day beside a small stream talking, talking all day of books and plays and Pete told her tales of newspaper traditions, but never that his heart beat faster at the sound of her footfall or that a shadow on her face was like a cloud passing over him.

Did Linda know? What woman wouldn't have known? She tried to pretend that it was not so, that Pete was her friend, that their association was to him what it was to her—a pleasant companionship. It was only when she spent those quiet, comforting evenings at home with Pete and his mother that conscience smote her and she felt she was being unfair to him. But she had no little, she depended on him for so much that she could not let him go. And, since he did not tell her that he loved her, she couldn't say anything to let him know how she felt.

For she had only Pete and her letters from Dix. The letters were few and like water one dreams of drinking when one is thirsty, it did not quench the thirst. Dix loved Rome. He was studying with Gaspari. He thought he would try for a singing role in a London production. Opera took too long. He had met some amusing Russians. He hoped she was "having a good time."

was all. No more of caring for her. No mention of that last night. No word of the future.

And yet Linda wrote her heart out to him and then tore up the letters. But finally her loneliness and love for him came to dominate her letters and on a cold bleak day, one of those October days that flaunts the coming death of the season, there came a letter from Dix in answer to hers.

"We didn't know what we were talking about," he said. "It was only a few months ago, but it seems like years. Linda, and I think that we were caught up in an emotional wave with my leaving and all that. I suppose you feel the same way. We've been apart now for a long time. You have a job you like, and I'm in this music thing pretty deep. It isn't fair to either of us to be bound to anything as vague as my future."

It didn't matter what else he said. He didn't intend to come back to Linda.

The letter Linda burned, but not before she knew every phrase by heart and every phrase weighed on her heart like stones that pressed into her and surged up into her throat, bringing the tears to her eyes.

She couldn't work. She had to work it out for herself, but she couldn't do it and keep her mind on her job. She asked for a vacation and got it. Then she got out her party clothes, like countless girls before her and, with a new wave, a determined smile and a heavy heart, set out to join Linda at the Jennings' camp.

There were boys on the party and music and gaiety. It was like the good times that Linda used to have before Calvin Bourne killed himself, and that part of her life came to an end. Once more Linda had breakfast in bed and sat up far into the night, listening to gossip with Wilda. She danced, played golf and joined in the infantile games that were the rage of the season. She won a little money at bridge and lost it at backgammon. She went for tramps in the country and drives into town. It was the life she had once led and enjoyed, but now she no longer enjoyed it. She played until she was tired, but she was never too tired to feel the ache that stiffened her throat when she thought of Dix.

The fortnight came to an end and she faced the future with no more hope than she had when she ran away from herself and her job.

And, when she had decided that, she packed away her party clothes and sent a wire to Pete Gardiner telling him the hour her train was arriving.

Pete was at the train.

"Glad to see me? Miss me?" she asked, sincerely not meaning to be coquettish.

"Terribly," he said to both questions. "Are you glad to be back?"

"Terribly," she said, and for some reason tears glistened in her dark eyes.

The tears did it. "Linda, will you marry me?" Pete said, meaning it like a chess player over him.

Suddenly Linda saw so many things. She saw how polished were his boots, how smartly pressed his box tie, how his hand and his heart in his eyes. She saw in Pete the mirror of herself as Dix must have seen her.

ZIONCHECK IN NEW OUTBREAK

Representative From Seattle
Put Back By Guards in Washington, D.C., Hospital

Associated Press
Washington, June 9.—Breaking out of his room at the Gallinger Hospital and touring the grounds in a white bathrobe, Republican Marion A. Zioncheck, lost his reputation today as the institution's model patient.

The Washington State representative, committed to the hospital for mental observation, freed himself by kicking out two window screens.

He galloped about the grounds, whooping and puffing at a long black cigar, until apprehended by guards.

Muzz Patrick Forced To Hang Up Boxing Gloves For Months

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

STILL one of the most unpredictable events in the United States calendar of sports, the open golf championships, now features the astonishing story of Anthony Manero, son of an Italian gardener, who marched to victory at Springfield, N.J., on Saturday, with the lowest total ever made in a major seventy-two hole medal play competition.

After his name on a high scoreboard they posted 282, late Saturday, and when he walked from the last green, his nerves on edge, Sam Parks, last year's champion, congratulated him and said: "I just wanted to tell you to get the money in the first month or you'll never get it." And Manero is taking that advice. He was offered a guarantee to play in the open tournament at Shawnee-on-Deleware which opened Sunday. He drove there Saturday night and shot a 78 in the first round.

Now for a little about Manero. He is a slight, nervous chap of thirty-one years, with a moustache, waxed and pointed at the ends. He has never done anything but work around a golf course. He was born in New York's Bronx, and started caddy at Elmford, N.Y., when he was about the height of a golf bag. He caddied there until he was twenty-one, working in the shop now and then, polishing and wrapping clubs.

Manero has never taken a golf lesson and has an odd, individualistic style. According to experts, when he addresses the ball he doesn't put the club head back of the ball. He reaches well over the ball and then pulls in when he swings. He is a short-swing and a magnificent putter.

One of the features of the recent championship was the failure of the American Ryder Cup players to prove they are the best in the U.S. field. Two shots back of Manero, with a total of 284, which also broke the previous record, was Harry Cooper, "Lighthouse" Harry, despite his many successes and unquestioned ability, was not a member of the Ryder Cup team, and neither was Clarence Clark, who finished third, or the aged and remarkable Macdonald Smith, who was fourth.

Jack Forsgren, well-known Vancouver, heavyweight wrestler and holder of the Canadian championship, is experiencing great success on his tour of Australia. "Smiling Jack" had dropped a single match, according to the last letter received from him by a local fan. He has been wrestling several times each week and his pet hold, the Boston crab, has made him a favorite with the spectators "down under." Forsgren is gunning for a match with Earl McCready, another famous Canadian mat star, who is also touring the southern continent.

We witnessed an amusing incident at the auto races on Saturday at the new Langford speedway. Shortly before the events got under way a chap walked calmly to the north end of the track, outside the high board fence, with a pair of linemen's spikes and a belt hanging over his arm. He looked around, picked himself out a tree with a good outlook on the track, and then calmly climbed up it with the aid of his equipment, sat down on a limb and watched the races from his grandstand seat. Maybe he figured he was a lot safer perched up in a tree than the hundreds of spectators in the grandstand.

John Henry Lewis In Easy Victory

New York, June 9.—John Henry Lewis, world light-heavyweight champion, had an easy time outpointing John Anderson, Sweden, in a ten-round non-title bout yesterday evening at Dexter Park. Both weighed over the class limit, Lewis 180 and Anderson 175½.

About 5,000 fans turned out to see the Phoenix, Ariz., negro win seven rounds but fail in his effort to put over a knockout punch. Anderson won two rounds with one even.

Victoria's Ring Star to Undergo Nose Operation

Murray Believes Ailment Caused By Hockey Stick; Laid Up Indefinitely

RUINS CHANCES FOR OLYMPICS

Canadian Press
New York, June 9.—Canada's chances of gaining major points in the heavyweight boxing division at the Olympic Games at Berlin this summer appear to have been blasted today by a nose injury suffered by Murray Patrick, twenty-year-old master of the short arm smash to the chin.

The Dominion's all-around athletic marvel of Victoria, B.C., has been ordered by specialists to refrain from ring activities and to prepare to undergo the surgeon's knife to correct the nasal ailment. The operation will be performed here within a few days if Lester Patrick, vice-president and manager of New York Rangers hockey team, grants parental consent from his home in Victoria, B.C.

Verdict of the specialists proved a more severe jolt to the handsome young Victorian with the wicked fists than any the basketball, hockey and track star has received in athletic combat. He has been forced to cancel all summer activities, which included his cherished ambition to compete in the Canadian Olympic boxing trials at Montreal next month, and if successful, carry on to win the Olympic heavyweight crown for the Maple Leaf.

THREE MONTHS REST

Even if the operation is performed immediately the captain and defence ace of New York Rangers of the United States Eastern Hockey League will be unable to renew his leather-tossing desires for at least three months. Therefore Murray, who planned on turning professional in Great Britain after the Olympics—providing he got that far and gave a good account of himself, will probably content himself with resuming training gradually on the Pacific Coast the balance of the summer in preparation for next season's puck-chasing schedule.

According to Manhattan experts, Murray, with a little more experience, could probably polish off any amateur heavyweight in the United States. He already holds the United States northwest championship, in addition to the Canadian amateur heavyweight crown. He has been defeated but once in his short and meteoric career, being out-pointed in Victoria two years ago by the Canadian light-heavyweight titlist, Patrick at that time had only a few fights under his belt.

Today, however, the six-foot, 200-pounder is a far different youngster than the crude, tyro Victorians saw. Since winning the Dominion crown last summer he has hammered off their pedestals several prominent heavyweights hereabouts and topped these performances off by winning the Catholic Youth Association title.

Just how the youngster of the Patrick suffered the injury is not definitely known. Murray believes a wild swinging stick in one of last winter's hockey bouts irritated the nasal passages, which may have been further damaged in workouts with champion Jimmy Braddock and other top-notch big men.

Only for the fact he has difficulty breathing the Canadian star would be tempted to ignore medical advice and defend his title at Montreal, a task Manhattan critics believe he could accomplish in workmanlike fashion if in top form.

Lester Gives His Consent

Lester Patrick, father of Murray Patrick, stated today he had given his consent to an operation on Muzz's nose to correct a nasal ailment the young athlete is being bothered with.

The elder Patrick said he was informed of his son's illness yesterday, and he immediately wired his consent for the doctors to go ahead immediately with the operation.

According to Lester, Murray has been having quite a bad time with his nose, and it will be some time before he can resume boxing.

TONY MANERO AMONG FIELD

New U.S. Open Golf Champ Will Defend General Brock Tourney Title

Fonthill, Ont., June 9.—Dapper Tony Manero will come back to Lookout Point tomorrow, defender of the General Brock open title, as the newly-crowned open golf champion of the United States. He'll be the big attraction of the seventy-two-hole tournament that starts Thursday.

Tony is coming tomorrow, just as he intended to before his smashing triumph last Saturday at Baltusrol, to play in the international team match that precedes the medal competition. He will be a member of the native American team.

Tournament officials expect eight teams to start in tomorrow's eight-hole test. Two of these line-ups of six players each, the native and foreign-born Americans, will be selected by Robert E. Harlow, tournament manager of the United States Professional Golfers Association.

The U.S. team of foreign-borns was expected to include, among others, Bobby Cruickshank, Tommy Armour and Charles Lacey. There will be a team of Canadian amateurs, another of young Canadian Professionals, a Canadian professional team and a Toronto and district outfit.

The amateurs will be chosen from Sandy Somerville and Jack Nash, London; John Lewis, Brantford; Bill Taylor, Montreal; Gordon Taylor Jr., Fred Hoblitze and Gil Walker, Toronto, and Joe Thompson, Burlington, Ont.

Want Members Out

Members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade are asked to turn out on Friday evening to tender any assistance that might be necessary in the Colonist bike race. Members of the local unit will meet at the corner of King's Road and Quadra Street at 8:30 o'clock.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

—By John Hix

Immanuel KANT—FAMOUS GERMAN PHILOSOPHER AND AUTHOR OF THE "CONSTITUTION AND THE MECHANICAL ORIGIN OF THE UNIVERSE" NEVER WENT MORE THAN 40 MILES FROM HIS BIRTHPLACE IN ALL HIS 80 YEARS OF LIFE... Königsberg, 1724-1804 including in it fifteen ribs for two natural octaves and ten ribs for the sharps and flats.

NON-JOURNEYING PHOTOGRAPHER

Born in Königsberg, East Prussia, in 1724, Immanuel Kant, scholar, philosopher, theologian and author, lived a strangely contradictory career.

So strongly provincial that he never bothered to travel more than forty miles from the city of his birth which is a thriving seaport on the Baltic, he became one of the greatest authorities on physical geography and natural science of his time, though he is today chiefly remembered as the creator of the Kantian philosophy, still a prominent subject among modern philosophical students.

Though he disdained travel, it is easily understood how he obtained his vast knowledge of the world and human nature for truly can it be said of him that the world "beat a path to his door." Students from all points of the compass flocked to his classes at the University of Königsberg where he held the chair of logic and metaphysics and by many of his numerous followers was hailed as a second Messiah.

Tomorrow: Two Party Delegate.

Spencers to Meet James Bay Squad

The final match of the McKay Shield soccer series, which will bring together the Spencers and James Bay Wanderers, will be played tomorrow afternoon at the Athletic Park at 2:45 o'clock. Percy Shrimpton will referee. Last week the departmentals chalked up a 4 to 1 triumph in the Rennie & Taylor Cup final over the Wanderers.

M'LARNIN IS IN VANCOUVER

Former Welterweight Boxing Champion Says He Is Not Through

Vancouver, June 9.—James Archibald McLarnin, former welterweight champion of the world, returned to his home town for a visit yesterday, declared he was not through, explained his fight with Cansoneri and said he would like another crack at Tony.

"I'll know when I'm through," declared Jimmy speaking of reports that he was just that.

Speaking of his last fight, Jimmy said: "I thought I had Cansoneri sewed up in that first round when I hit him on the nose, but in the second Tony caught me on the temple and I didn't know where I was until the eighth."

"I'm not saying anything to belittle Tony's win," he added quickly, "for he's a great little fighter but it would be fun to wipe out that defeat."

"But, as for being through," he added, "it's all baloney. When you've studied this business as long as I have you know when to stop."

First Competition For Anglers Sunday

Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association Makes Elaborate Plans For Event on Sunday; Fine Prizes Donated; Dr. Hugh Clarke to Present Prizes

Hundreds of local rod-and-reel enthusiasts are all set for the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association's initial competition this season in Saanich Inlet on Sunday.

The tackle committee of the association selected this date because it offers the best tide for fishing on the banks of this month. Officials are hoping for good weather for their opening rally, which is expected to attract the largest gathering of anglers in the history of Saanich Inlet.

During the competition a mechanic, in a speed boat provided by Percy Stacey, will patrol the waters and provide mechanical service and fuel for those needing it. If a boat is in distress, the flying of a white flag will bring aid.

Extra docking facilities have been made to accommodate the expected heavy demand for landing space. Two men will direct the tying-up of the boats.

Fish captured early in the day will be kept in an ice compound for exhibition at the close of the competition, which starts at daybreak and closes at 7 o'clock sharp. Salmon from three pounds up may be weighed in and a consolation drawing will be held for those failing to reach the prize list.

To make things still more interesting to lucky heavyweight tuggers, the Chinook Club, which is an organization within the association, will stage its weekly contest in conjunction with the affair and some substantial prizes will be on hand for winners.

Dr. Hugh Clarke, president, will present the prizes at the close. At the conclusion of the prize distribution, Mrs. W. O. Wallace, the official weigher, will be invited to cut and distribute the association's fourth birthday cake. The delicacy, decorated with candles and embellished with the brooms, silver and gold trophy buttons is an annual contribution by McLean's bakery. The public is cordially invited to witness the closing activities and take part in the celebration.

Officials of the competition wish to make known that the Anchorage Tea Gardens at Brentwood Bay is the headquarters of the association, and the wind-up will be staged there. The committee in charge of the classic consists of Murty Dunn and William Rowe.

Local fishing tackle stores of Victoria, with the aid of the V.B.I.A., will sponsor the classic. They have donated some excellent prizes. The angler bringing in the largest fish will be presented with a splittane trolling rod, donated by Feden Brothers. The runner-up will be given an English fishing reel; presented by Wilson & Lestey. Frank Cross of Willes Grocery will donate an Indian sweater for the angler taking third position. Other prizes are: Fourth prize, sport shirt from George Straith; (Turn to Page 10, Column 3)

KENT RETAINS CRICKET LEAD

Beats Somerset By Sixty-six Runs in English Cricket; Freeman Bowls Well

Canadian Press
London, June 9.—Winning from Somerset by sixty-six runs in a tight game at Frome today, Kent retained the lead in the English county cricket championship. When play was resumed today the western county, with six wickets in hand, needed only ninety-four runs for victory. ## Heads Field in Women's City Golf Championship at Uplands With 84; Mary Mackenzie-Grieve Second, One Stroke More; Open Match Play Today

Miss Dorothy Fletcher won the medal honors in the eighteen-hole qualifying round of the annual women's city golf championship at the Uplands Golf Club yesterday. Playing on a course made plenty heavy by the recent rains, the young home club shot-maker turned in a smart 84 to lead the field of thirty-eight by a single stroke.

Miss Fletcher was out in 46, seven strokes over par figures and back in 38, just a single stroke over perfect golf. On the last nine holes the medalist reeled off seven straight pars, went one over on the eight and then shot the eighteenth in par figures.

In the second place was Miss Mary Mackenzie-Grieve, a former titleholder, also from the Uplands, with an 85. At the nine hole mark the runner-up had a two stroke lead, but she was unable to match the pace of the medalist on the last nine holes, using up 41 strokes.

Mrs. E. Jackson, defending champion, and Mrs. H. G. MacKenzie finished in a tie for third position with scores of 87. Next in line was Mrs. Arthur Dowell, recently crowned Uplands champion, with an 89.

Three scores of 100 included among those who qualified for the championship flight. The remainder have been divided into flights and they will play off under a handicap.

Match play got under way this afternoon and will continue until Friday, when the final is scheduled. Leading cards and women's par follow:

THE BIG SIX

Pounding out three hits each, Lou Gehrig and Joe DiMaggio, the hard-hitting veteran and rookie, respectively, of New York Yankees, climbed into baseball's Big Six yesterday. Gehrig took over second place behind Billy Sullivan of the Indians in the American League trio with an average of .364, while DiMaggio trailed the Yankee "iron man" by only one percentage point.

They displaced a pair of white Sox sluggers—Rip Radcliff and Luke Appling. Bill Terry was the only member of the National League group to see action and he failed to get a hit in one trip to the plate as a pinch hitter, losing five points.

The standing of the three leaders in each league:

League	Player	G	A	B	R	H	Pct.
Sullivan, Indians	...	21	107	16	43	462	.364

TIGERS HALT BRUINS DASH

Tiger softball nine brought the pennant dash of the Bruins to a sudden halt yesterday evening when they checked in with a 4 to 1 victory after a closely-contested 8 section softball fixture at the Athletic Park.

The Bengals caught up with their opponents in the fourth inning when made the score 1 to 1. They added a lone tally in the seventh frame and a pair in the ninth.

Sidney triumphed over the Hollywood Club, 17 to 12 and in doing so advanced into top berth in front of the Bruins. North Saanich Service Club clouted out a 9 to 3 victory over Togo Glenner.

The Navy-Saanichton fixture was called off owing to unfavorable ground conditions.

Chicago Cubs In Drive For Lead

Last Year's National League Baseball Champions Whip Phillies 3 to 0 For Fifth Straight Win; Giants Go Under Again; New York Yanks Gain on Boston

On their Wrigley Field the Chicago Cubs won the 1935 National League pennant, putting together the greater part of their famous twenty-one-game winning streak.

Now, in another home stand, they have begun a brand new winning streak to join in with St. Louis Cardinals and New York Giants in the hot 1936 race.

The Cubs have won five straight on their home lot now and by trouncing the Phillies 3 to 0 yesterday as Larry French revived last year's pitching form they landed only a game and a half behind the second place New York club and five behind the league-leading Cards.

The Cubs could not shake off the pesky Pittsburgh Pirates, the club they ousted from third place by a single percentage point a few days ago. Cy Blanton gave the Pirates a 2 to 1 decision over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Giants, meanwhile, took a 7 to 3 drubbing from the Cincinnati Reds, who blasted Harry Gumbert out with three runs in the fifth. The Cards and Boston Bees had an off day.

In the American League the New York Yankees stretched their lead to three games with a 12 to 3 rout of the St. Louis Browns, while their nearest rivals, the Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers, maulled each other in a double header, the Sox winning the first 6 to 3 and dropping the second 12 to 7. The Sox provided excellent support for Lefty Grove in the opener.

The day's only other game saw the Philadelphia Athletics beat the Chicago White Sox 5 to 4 in the tenth.

COAST LEAGUE
Seattle and Oakland, running one-two in the Coast League race, grabbed the spotlight today with their series at Emeryville.

Manager Dutch Reuther's Indians, who dearly love their home park, capitalized on a two weeks' stay there by chambering into first place. The A's recent tailspin reached a climax there when the Reuther hirings won seven out of eight games two weeks ago.

Only two games out of first place, the Mission Reds invade Los Angeles, now reposing in seventh place. Portland, fifth in the standings, clashes with the last-place Senators in Sacramento, while the Seals open up at home against the San Diego Padres. Aside from the Oakland set to the opening games will be played under the lights.

Thanks to the rears of the Missions and Seattle in dumping the Oaks, the Coast League race is as close as the most rabid fan would desire. Only four games separate the first and fourth place clubs in the standings.

New York, June 9.—Joseph E. Widener's Brevity probably has run his last race of the year. Pete Coyne, trainer, said the colt pulled up lame after finishing fifth in the Belmont Stakes Saturday. The injury probably would keep him from fulfilling his future stake engagements.

CHURCH PENSION FUND GROWING

Canadian Press
Hamilton, June 9.—Reporting for the pension board before the Presbyterian Assembly yesterday, Rev. John Lindsay stated the fund had grown from $519,922.05 in 1928 to $607,420 in 1936. In nine years the total had increased 57 per cent.

"We are more fortunate than one of our sister churches which invested much of its pension funds in Alberta bonds," he said.

Expenditures of the fund last year totaled $42,208.

"In the last nine years payments to ministers and widows have totaled $337,181," Mr. Lindsay said.

Nine annuitants and ratepayers to the fund died during the last year. Sixty ministers, seventy widows and eleven children are at present receiving benefits from the fund.

J. H. HAMMOND PASSES AWAY

Associated Press
Gloucester, Mass., June 9.—John Hays Hammond Jr., eighty-one, noted mining engineer, died yesterday evening at his home on Freshwater Cove, here, after a long illness.

Hammond once was sentenced to be hanged in the Transvaal, and later was special ambassador of President William Howard Taft at the coronation of King George V.

The mining engineer sought adventure throughout the world. He was a friend of Cecil Rhodes, Rudyard Kipling, Theodore Roosevelt, Mark Twain and Rider Haggard.

He had a palatial home in Washington as well as Gloucester and had offices in London and New York.

A doctor said Hammond died of heart trouble.

John Hays Hammond Jr., the celebrated inventor, was at his estate near that of his father when news of the death came.

Richard Pindell Hammond, the youngest son, who is a composer, recently arrived. He has a daughter, a daughter, and a third son, Harris Hammond of New York city, also survive him.

FINDS WOMAN WAS DROWNED

Coroner's Jury Discounts Theory Mrs. H. Sundstrom Strangled on Ss. Cardena

Canadian Press
Vancouver, June 9.—A coroner's jury yesterday evening found that Mrs. Holger Sundstrom of Vancouver came to her death by drowning, despite the opinion of a physician that the woman had been strangled.

The woman's body was found at Otter Bay, Texas Island, shortly after she had disappeared from the Ss. Cardena May 27 while en route to Rock Bay.

Dr. O. O. Lyons of Powell River expressed the opinion the woman had been strangled to death before the body entered the water. Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance of the Vancouver police bureau of science, testified no water was found in the woman's lungs.

Dr. A. W. Hunter, official autopsist, however, voiced the opinion drowning had caused death, but said bruises found on the neck, arms and thighs had been caused by violence.

New Secretary
Is Appointed

Ben Hethey of Victoria Takes Position With Premier
Patullo

Leaving this afternoon for northern British Columbia to lead government forces in the Omicron by-election campaign, Premier Patullo will take with him a new private secretary, Ben Hethey, of Victoria.

The Premier announced today that Mr. Hethey had been engaged as his secretary. Since the departure of R. C. Cartwright for South Africa last year, the Premier has been without the services of a permanent private secretary.

Mr. Hethey, who lives with his parents in Oak Bay, came to Victoria two years ago. He recently returned from an eight-months' tour of the Pacific countries, including Japan, China, Manila, Australia and Hawaii. Mr. Hethey was educated in London and spent several years afterwards in France, Germany and Spain. He speaks both French and German fluently.

He joined the Calcutta Light Horse in August, 1914, having gone to India to join his father's engineering firm. He was also in Egypt during the war and returned to England in 1915 to take a commission in the Middlesex Regiment. In France he was attached to the Engineers and later appointed liaison officer with the Third Army Staff.

In 1924 he came to Canada and entered the publishing business in Toronto as editor of two technical magazines. Returning in 1929 he went again to England, took up civil aviation and learned to pilot a plane. He returned to Canada in 1933.

Saatchi Lamb
Show Tomorrow

First Annual Event of Local Sheep Breeders Includes
Dog Trials

The first annual lamb show and sale of the North and South Saatchi Sheep Breeders' Association will be held in the agricultural grounds, Saatchi tomorrow afternoon.

In this initial effort, prize money is not large as it is mainly being financed by the generosity of the breeders in donating stock for auctioning, but enthusiasm is said to be high. Quite a few outside entries are reported.

Two or three dogs from the mainland will compete in the sheep dog trials along with local entries. Unassisted, at the commands of the shepherds, these dogs will go through their duties of "cutting out, catching and holding, and corralling." A silver trophy will be awarded to the dog showing the best all-round performance.

In addition to the usual classes, the show committee intends to have a junior judging contest for boys and girls under sixteen years of age.

NEWS IN BRIEF

G. A. McNeill, general passenger agent in British Columbia for the Canadian National Railways, was a visitor to Victoria today. He called on local transportation men to discuss the season's tourist travel.

The special gymnastic class conducted at the Y.M.C.A. by Len Oliver and Stan McKay will open tonight at 8 o'clock and continue till 10 o'clock. Handbalancers and specialists in other forms of gymnastics are asked to turn out.

Constable Frost of the P.M.L. 7, on the West Coast, is engaged in endeavoring to locate the owner of a carrier pigeon which was found a few days ago in perfect condition on the Indian reserve at Hesquiat by Rev. Father Joseph Schindler. On the bird's left leg is a rubber tag stamped "N 770" and on the right leg is a metal tag stamped "L.H.S. 956," with "30" written across it. The bird was on the reserve for several days before it was caught.

The Victoria School Board will meet for its last regular monthly meeting of the term at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. The meeting will be followed by another session later in the month, at which reports on teachers and various other term-closure matters will be discussed. The school board is also considering certain matters pertaining to the length of high school courses may come up for consideration tomorrow. Pending consideration by the court of a technicality raised by Stuart Henderson, defence counsel; the charge against W. D. Smith of keeping beer for sale was adjourned until Tuesday morning in the Saatchi Police Court yesterday morning. During examination by E. L. Tait, prosecutor, of Chief Allan Rankin, the chief testified there had been a previous conviction against the accused. Mr. Henderson protested such testimony was not admissible until the accused had been convicted on the current charge. The court remanded the case to consider the objection.

The first meeting of the Truck Drivers' and Helpers' Union, Local No. 101, will be held on Thursday, June 11, at 8 o'clock in the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, Pacific Division, at the Empress Hotel. The executive committee hopes for a good attendance as the meeting is an important one, being practically a reorganization meeting. It will mark a change for the union from an independent status to the position of a federal union under a new charter granted by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada. Prospective members should attend fifteen minutes prior to the meeting or get in touch with the secretary at E 4364. Most members are drivers of heavy-type trucks and an effort is being made to have more drivers of lighter trucks join the organization.

Fourteen of the 120 pages of reading matter in the June issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal, official organ of the medical profession in Canada, are devoted to Victoria. Part of the material relates to the program of the annual convention of the association, to be held at the Empress Hotel, June 22 to 26. The remainder describes the city and surrounding country. The descriptive matter, supplied by the publicity committee of the association, with the co-operation of the Vancouver and Island Publicity Bureau, makes interesting reading, and tells of the attractions which the city and island have to offer to the visiting medical men. The article is illustrated with four pictures of typical scenes within a twenty-mile radius of the city.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Moore, Navasota, Texas; Mrs. O. E. Alexander, Los Angeles, and C. B. Foster, San Diego, are among United States visitors to the city and the island who are making their headquarters at the Dominion.

Californians who are staying at the Strathcona Hotel today include Miss L. Hettie, San Francisco; Mrs. H. B. Ray and Miss Virginia Ray, San Francisco, and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Lamb, Oakland.

Auto Club For
Province Urged

B.C. Only Province Without
Provincial Organization

Reorganization of the British Columbia Automobile Club was urged this morning in a letter from A. B. Brockway, chairman of the western division of the Canadian Automobile Association, to T. J. Goodlake, secretary of the Victoria club.

Mr. Mackay expresses the view that efforts should be made to maintain a provincial auto club in every province in Canada, united together in and through the Canadian Automobile Association.

It is possible, says Mr. Mackay, that if efforts are successful to hold a conference of western Canada clubs in Vancouver this summer, the situation might be developed, which would develop enthusiasm in the direction of an active B.C. provincial club.

In a copyrighted story, the paper said the girl had obtained a job as a housemaid and had expected to go to work today.

VISITOR GIVES
FINE RECITAL

Dr. Lloyd Powell Speaks on Board Examinations to
Music Teachers

By G. J. D.

A delightful and informative evening was that of yesterday when Dr. Lloyd Powell, a visiting examiner and professor of the Royal College of Music, London, gave an informal talk regarding the examinations of the board throughout the world, before a body of teachers of music and musical people generally.

This took place in the New Thought Hall and was under the auspices of the local branch of the B.C. Music Teachers' Federation.

After an introduction by Dr. Felton, the honorary local representative of the board, Dr. Powell said how much he desired wherever he visited to meet the teachers of music. He pointed to the use of these examinations, and said that all teachers should make use of them as they were really a part of the young people's musical education.

He found so many candidates knew very little about the composer or the pieces they were playing, and strange to say, even when a short history of the work was given in the examination books of the board as used by the candidates. Vienna, for instance, was often said by them to be in Italy.

Other matters deserving more attention were the language of musical terms and the proper use of the "wireless," which in very many cases he thought, was carelessly abused, some people even keeping the radio going all day long.

"Imagine a Beethoven symphony being played for hours at a stretch," he said, and spoke of how few understood the art of really listening to music.

"Musical benefits by means of the radio can only be properly derived by good, honest listening," he said. "UNDERSTANDING OF NEW MUSIC"

Regarding modern music, people have a diversified opinion, and opinion, but it should be approached and received by an open mind. Whether good or bad time alone would deal with this question. Mr. Powell was convinced that many modern works would be retained, as music was not more difficult in understanding than the present-day regard for the old masters.

Debussey, he said, at one time created unusual comment, and lots of musicians did not understand him. The English composer, John Ireland, although influenced by Grieg, would hold a place he thought, his whimsical "On a Birthday Morning" being included in Mr. Powell's impromptu recital—each number prefaced by appropriate remarks, as absorbingly beautiful a performance of piano music as is believed we have listened to in our experience, so perfect medium is he through which the all-satisfying soul of music is conveyed to his listeners.

Bartok, a modernist Hungarian composer, was represented in an excerpt, inspired by Hungarian folk-music, as apart from the gypsy music, which had Oriental origin.

Mr. Powell opened with three numbers of the Handel Bach period in a recital of his masterpieces. In this area with 10,000 British graves, the land where the bodies lay was given in perpetuity by France and Belgium to the countries to whom they belonged.

On the crosses were simply written: "Died for England," "Mort pour la France," "Gefallen fur Deutschland," and the ages of the fallen.

At Ramspeck there were 540 British graves with the words, "known only to God" on them. In these graves were just fragments, never identified. There was a great wall around the cemetery at Pyne Cot in which 20,000 names of those who had perished unknown were written—a great library in stone.

At Madelon-Blanche, near Arras, 41,000 German graves, with their black crosses, like ebony in a field of white arabs. At St. Julien where 2,000 Canadians dropped in the first gas attack, was a memorial which in its simplicity and beauty should have been standardized, Mr. Diggon felt.

The surroundings of Hill No. 60 and Sanctuary Wood had been left just as they were with the trenches and rusty rifles and bits of clothing lying around. The day before he had visited these places one of the caretakers had pulled up a boot in which there was still the skeleton of an ankle.

"After seeing these graves I came back all the more convinced that armed conflict avails us nothing; in short, I think that war is hell," Mr. Diggon said.

Prefacing his talk on the cemeteries of the war, Mr. Diggon discussed the old-fashioned and modern ideas, he said. The suburbs were built up with modern semi-detached houses which cost between $4,000 and $5,000 and yet they had no central heating or basements.

The huge blocks of apartments and flats in the city were "crosses between hospitals and lunatic asylums," Mr. Diggon said. They lacked architectural design and were a blight on the landscape.

Living conditions were expensive and wages were low. Workers looked strained and harassed. Coffee which previously cost halfpenny a cup now cost three pence and fourpence. There were lots of people making money, he said. London was still the home of vested interest. William Luney presided.

Winnipeg, June 9.—Ernest F. Willis, former member of Parliament for Souris constituency, was elected leader of the Manitoba Conservative party by acclamation at the party's convention here today.

TELLS OF TRIP
AMONG GRAVES

Harold Diggon Gives Talk on War Cemeteries of Belgium and France

"It was 200 miles of immortality with a heartbreak in every mile," said Harold Diggon in telling of his motor trip through the war graveyards of Belgium and France, in a talk before the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon in the Empress Hotel today.

"Acres and acres of crosses, white for the British, grey for the French, black for the German," he added.

After eighteen years he forgot the war while in Canada, Mr. Diggon said, but in the cemetery-strewn countryside of Ypres, Somme and Arras, the horror and futility of it all came back. "Just imagine traveling from Victoria to Campbell River and at every mile there is a sign post pointing to a grave," he said.

There were 195 cemeteries in this area with 10,000 British graves. The land where the bodies lay was given in perpetuity by France and Belgium to the countries to whom they belonged.

On the crosses were simply written: "Died for England," "Mort pour la France," "Gefallen fur Deutschland," and the ages of the fallen.

At Ramspeck there were 540 British graves with the words, "known only to God" on them. In these graves were just fragments, never identified. There was a great wall around the cemetery at Pyne Cot in which 20,000 names of those who had perished unknown were written—a great library in stone.

TELLS OF TRIP
FROM INDIA

Captain W. B. Selous, O.B.E.,
Here After Three Months'
Voyage

On his way to England to live after twenty-two years in India, Capt. W. B. Selous, O.B.E., arrived in Victoria yesterday and was planning to leave this afternoon for Vancouver and Banff. Interviewed at the Strathcona Hotel this morning he told of the leisurely three-months' journey which brought him here.

Starting from the district where Burma, Tibet and China join, he traveled by way of Calcutta, Penang, Singapore, Saigon in French Indo-China, Hongkong, Canton, Shanghai, Yokohama, Tokyo, Honolulu, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and then up by train to Seattle.

His comments on the places he had visited, most of them for the first time, were short and vivid.

SAIGON PATNETIC

He was in Saigon at the time Charlie Chaplin, Paulette Goddard and the rest of the party were there. He found this colonial French city "a pathetic, dead place," but the docks were marvelous. There was so little trade there I suppose they could spend all their time keeping them clean," he added.

He was disappointed with Canton, but found Peking the best part of all China, and was surprised at the excellence of the railway service on the railway there from Shanghai.

FULL MARKS FOR TOKIO

Of Tokio he said "It gets full marks. It's simply takes your breath away. Everything is new, and the taxis were the best I had ever ridden in."

In California he was entertained in several private homes, and found the hospitality of that state almost overwhelming. He spent three days in San Francisco and four in Los Angeles and Hollywood.

Capt. Selous would say little of conditions in India except that "The country is in the melting pot at present." A whole new system of government was being tried out, he explained. How it would work in the days before the war, he did not say. Commercially, the jute situation in Calcutta was adversely affecting the whole country.

Capt. Selous is a native of Jersey. He believed Duncan must be very much like that island was in the days before the war. He had once been to a church service there, attended by twenty retired generals.

This morning Capt. Selous was setting out by car to visit Butcher's gardens and the lower part of Vancouver Island.

WARNING ABOUT GERMANY

New York, June 9 (Associated Press).—Dr. George Bernard Shaw, exiled German statesman, publisher and economist, said yesterday evening Chancellor Adolf Hitler was building a war machine which was a menace to all Europe and that European nations should make it clear by word and deed that they would unite to crush the Third Reich in case of hostilities.

RADIOS INCREASE

Ottawa, June 9 (Canadian Press).—Private radio receiving licenses issued in Canada during the year ended March 31 totaled 862,100, an increase of 40,784 over the previous year. Western provinces, with previous year in brackets, were: British Columbia, 80,215 (70,759); Alberta, 53,216 (49,107); Saskatchewan, 49,059 (41,573).

GROUPERS AT CONVENTION

New York, June 9 (Associated Press).—The Oxford Group, at the end of its first national assembly in United States, will try, through its founder, Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman, to establish "God-control" in the Cleveland Republican Convention. Dr. Buchman said he would go to Cleveland tonight and would seek to "change" United States politicians in attendance there.

"Y" Camp in Need of Row-
boat and Small Stove For
Headquarters

At a meeting of the Y.M.C.A. camp committee yesterday evening with W. T. Strath in the chair, the property and site development of the new Glina Lake camp was discussed at length.

It was decided that the new site would be thoroughly surveyed and plans for the full development of the buildings and equipment would be made this summer.

The committee reported they were greatly in need of rowboats for the lake and a small stove for the headquarters, and would be grateful to anyone able to donate them.

A short-wave radio set will be installed in the camp this summer so that the youngsters may send messages home whenever they desire. It will probably be operated by a member of the Y.M.C.A. short-wave club.

In preparation for the coming season work is being done on the road leading from the highway to the camp and it is expected it will be in better condition by July 2, the date set for the opening.

LACK OF FIELD
CANCELS TRIP

Capt. E. G. Froberg Planned
Flight to Victoria, But No
Landing Field Available

Victoria's lack of a suitable airplane landing field today caused cancellation of a proposed flight to Victoria by Capt. E. G. Froberg, general superintendent of the American Mail Line at Seattle.

Capt. Froberg had made plans to fly here today with three Seattle friends, when he was advised over the telephone the field on Lansdowne Road was in no fit condition for a safe landing. It was grown over with high grass and weeds and a landing there would be extremely hazardous, he was advised.

Rather than take any chances, Capt. Froberg canceled his trip. He had intended to spend today in Victoria, taking up groups of his local friends on short flights. He pilots the plane himself, having qualified as a pilot for passenger planes some months ago.

Capt. Froberg intended to meet the inbound St. President Jackson here tomorrow morning and fly back to Seattle after she had cleared for the Sound port. He will now come to Victoria by regular steamer.

Unassisted, at the commands of the shepherds, these dogs will go through their duties of cutting out, catching and holding, and corralling. Auto Club For
Province Urged

B.C. Only Province Without
Provincial Organization

Reorganization of the British Columbia Automobile Club was urged this morning at a letter from A. B. Hickey, chairman of the western division of the Canadian Automobile Association, to T. J. Goodlake, secretary of the Victoria club.

Mr. Mackay expresses the view that efforts should be made to maintain a provincial auto club in every province in Canada, united together in the Canadian Automobile Association.

It is possible, says Mr. Mackay, that if efforts are successful to hold a conference of western Canada clubs in Vancouver this summer, the situation might be developed, which would develop enthusiasm in the direction of an active B.C. provincial club.

Mr. Goodlake said this morning that a B.C. club was formed in 1925 but discontinued activities in 1932. British Columbia is now the only province without a provincial body.

ANGLING NOTES

Trotting is excellent all over, Shawanigan Lake, says a report received by the publicity bureau from the Sunset Inn. Fly fishing is very good at the south end, fair at the north end and in the west arm.

Dry flies which are taking well at present are the brown hack March brown and red ant. The silver doctor is good in the evening, and the coachman between 5 and 7 o'clock in the evening on the west side of the lake.

Anglers are reminded of the cup donated by the Shawanigan Board of Trade for the largest fish caught in the lake during the season.

REPORTER FINDS
RUNAWAY GIRL

Associated Press
Chicago, June 9.—Dorothy Blumenstine, fourteen-year-old school girl, object of a widespread search last Sunday by 900 volunteers who feared she might have been slain, was found today by a Chicago Times reporter.

Missing from her home for nine days, the daughter of Dr. Emil Blumenstine, a veterinarian of Washington, Ill., Dorothy told the newspaper she had come to Chicago "on an impulse" because she "wanted to go to work."

In a copyrighted story, the paper said the girl had obtained a job as a housemaid and had expected to go to work today.

Dr. Lloyd Powell Speaks on Board Examinations to
Music Teachers

By G. J. D.

A delightful and informative evening was that of yesterday when Dr. Lloyd Powell, a visiting examiner and professor of the Royal Schools of Music, London, gave an informal talk regarding the examinations of the board throughout the world, before a body of teachers of music and musical people generally.

This took place in the New Thought Hall and was under the auspices of the local branch of the B.C. Music Teachers' Federation.

After an introduction by Dr. Felton, the honorary local representative of the board, Dr. Powell said how much he desired wherever he visited to meet the teachers of music. He pointed to the use of these examinations, and said that all teachers should make use of them as they were really a part of the young people's musical education.

He found so many candidates knew very little about the composer or the pieces they were playing, and strange to say, even when a short history of these was given in the examination books of the board as used by the candidates. Vienna, for instance, was often said by them to be in Italy.

Other matters deserving more attention were the language of musical terms and the proper use of the "wireless," which in many cases he thought, was carelessly abused, and some people even keeping the radio going all day long.

"Imagine a Beethoven symphony being played for hours at a stretch," he said, and spoke of how few understood the art of really listening to music.

"Musical benefits by means of the radio can only be properly derived by good, honest listening," he said.

UNDERSTANDING OF NEW MUSIC

Regarding modern music, people have a diversified interest and opinion, but it should be approached and received by an open mind. Whether good or bad time alone would deal with this question, Mr. Powell was convinced that many modern works would be retained, as music was not more difficult in understanding than present-day regard for the old masters.

Debusse, he said, at one time created unusual comment, and lots of musicians did not understand him. The English composer, John Ireland, although influenced by Stravinsky, would hold a place he thought, his whimsical "On a Birthday Morning" being included in Dr. Powell's impromptu recital—each number prefaced by appropriate remarks, as absorbingly, beautifully a performance of piano music as is believed we have heard in our experience, so perfect a medium is through which the all-satisfying joy of music is conveyed to his listeners.

Bartok, a modernist Hungarian composer, was represented in an excerpt, inspired by Hungarian folk music, as apart from the gypsy music, which had Oriental origin.

Mr. Powell opened with three numbers of the Handel Bach period in a "Theme and Variations," by Handel, a beautiful "Old English Air," by Boyce, and a Bach "Chorale," remarking that these were really written for the harpsichord of the day. In these recitals he kept sense of color and lyric song was granted a fertile field for display, as were the tenderness and fanciful qualities of the Chopin numbers, Ballade in A flat major, the A flat major Mazurka, and the waltz in A flat major, the well-known music being invested with a freshening, renewed atmosphere, grace and charm, and where required tremendous blocks of tone in his climaxes, both in this and in his concluding Liszt-Schubert waltz, exquisite rhythmic patterning, and deeply delving into the very heart, the utmost emotional content of the music.

At the conclusion, a hearty vote of thanks, proposed by George J. Dyke was tendered Mr. Powell. All present standing in acclamation.

CIVIL SERVICE
REPORT TABLED

Canadian Press
Ottawa, June 9.—Serious consideration should be given to placing under the operation of the Civil Service Act all officers, clerks and employees required when new units were added to the public service, said the report of the Civil Service Commission, tabled today in the House of Commons.

The dual system whereby some units of the service were recruited by the competitive or merit system under the commission and others are appointed by the ministers "tends to confusion and lack of elasticity in the service," the report states.

The huge blocks of apartments and flats in the city were "crosses between hospitals and lunatic asylums," Mr. Diggon said. They lacked architectural design and were a blight on the landscape.

Living conditions were expensive and wages were low. Workers looked strained and harassed. Coffee which previously cost halfpenny a cup now cost three pence and fourpence.

There were lots of people making money, he said. London was still the home of vested interest.

William Luney presided.

Winnipeg, June 9.—Erick F. Willis, former member of Parliament for Souris constituency, was elected leader of the Manitoba Conservative party by acclamation at the party's convention here today.

Associated Press
Darjeeling, India, June 9.—Reports from the British advance party seeking to climb Mount Everest said today the group had narrowly escaped death June 6 when a sudden avalanche swept down the mountain side.

The party was trying to reach Camp 4, high up the slope toward the 29,000-foot peak, the loftiest in the world.

Hugh Rutledge, veteran climber, is leader of the expedition though not himself a member of the advance party.

Obituary

JOSEPH PATRICK BYRNE

The funeral of the late Joseph Patrick Byrne, who passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital on June 5, will take place tomorrow morning, the cortege leaving the Sands Mortuary Chapel at 9.30 o'clock. Ten minutes later Mass will be celebrated at St. Andrew's Cathedral by the Rev. Father C. T. Albury. The remains will be laid to rest in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

SAMSON BLOOR

The death occurred at the Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday of Samson Bloor, of 1818 Fern Street, aged seventy-three years. He was born in Shropshire, England, and had been a resident of this city for the last forty-six years. Mr. Bloor had been connected for a great many years with the Victoria Towing Company, and was also a member of the A.G.U.W. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Furness of New Westminster and Mrs. C. W. Holland of Halifax. The funeral services will be held in Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Canon F. A. P. Chadwick officiating, after which interment will be in Ross Bay Cemetery.

MARGARET ALLAN KERMODE

Mrs. Margaret Allan Kermode, wife of Francis Kermode, curator of the British Columbia Museum, passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday. She was 57 years of age. Mrs. Kermode was in her fifty-seventh year.

She leaves her husband and two children at home, Edward G. Kermode, a son, and Miss Margaret E. Kermode, a daughter of Toronto, now visiting here; her mother, Mrs. Mary Fowler and two brothers, G. L. Fowler and Hector Fowler, in Vancouver, and six sisters, Mrs. Fred Brack, Victoria; Mrs. George Pittendrigh, Mrs. Frank Chapman, Mrs. A. W. Lewis and Miss Mary Fowler, all in Vancouver, and Mrs. Harman, Toronto.

Funeral services will be held at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel on Thursday afternoon at 3.15 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Clem Davies will officiate and interment will be in Ross Bay Cemetery.

It was 200 miles of immortality with a heartbreak in every mile," said Harold Diggon in telling of his motor trip through the war graveyards of Belgium and France, in a talk before the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon in the Empress Hotel today.

"Acres and acres of crosses, white for the British, grey for the French, black for the German," he added.

After eighteen years one forgot the war while in Canada, Mr. Diggon said, but in the cemetery-strewn countryside of Ypres, Somme and Arras, the horror and futility of it all came back.

"Just imagine traveling from Victoria to Campbell River and at every mile there is a sign post pointing to a graveyard," the speaker said.

There were 105 cemeteries in this area with 101,000 British graves. The land where the bodies lay was given in perpetuity by France and Belgium to the countries to whom they belonged.

"The crosses were simply written: 'Died for England,' 'Died for France,' 'Gefallen fur Deutschland,' and the ages of the fallen.

At Ramscapell there were 540 British graves with the words, 'known only to God' on them. In these graves were just fragments, never identified. There was a great wall around the cemetery at Pyne Cot in which 30,000 names of those who had perished unknown were written—a great library in stone.

At Madison Blanche, near Arras, 41,000 German graves, with their black crosses, like ebony in a field of white arabs. At St. Julien where 2,000 Canadians dropped in the first gas attack, was a memorial which in its stately simplicity and beauty should have been standardized, Mr. Diggon felt.

The surroundings of Hill No. 60 and Sanctuary Wood had been left just as they were with the trenches and rusty rifles and bits of clothing lying around. The day before he had visited these places one of the caretakers had pulled up a boot in which there was still the skeleton of an ankle.

"After seeing these graves I came back all the more convinced that armed conflict avails us nothing; in short, I think that war is hell," Mr. Diggon said.

Prefacing his talk on the cemeteries of the war, Mr. Diggon discussed London, England was a mixture of old-fashioned and modern ideas, he said. The suburbs were built up with modern semi-detached houses which cost between $4,000 and $6,000 and yet they had no central heating or basements.

The huge blocks of apartments and flats in the city were "crosses between hospitals and lunatic asylums," Mr. Diggon said. They lacked architectural design and were a blight on the landscape.

Living conditions were expensive and wages were low. Workers looked strained and harassed. Coffee which previously cost halfpenny a cup now cost three pence and fourpence.

There were lots of people making money, he said. London was still the home of vested interest.

TELLS OF TRIP
FROM INDIA

Captain W. B. Silous, O.B.E.,
Here After Three Months'
Voyage

On his way to England to live after twenty-two years in India, Capt. W. B. Silous, O.B.E., arrived in Victoria yesterday and was planning to leave this afternoon for Vancouver and Banff. Interviewed at the Strathcona Hotel this morning he told of the leisurely three-months' journey which brought him here.

Starting from the district where Burma, Tibet and China join, he traveled by way of Calcutta, Penang, Singapore, Saigon in French Indo-China, Hongkong, Canton, Shanghai, Yokohama, Tokio, Honolulu, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and then up by train to Seattle.

His comments on the places he had visited, most of them for the first time, were short and vivid.

SAIGON PATHETIC

He was in Saigon at the time Charlie Chaplin, Paulette Goddard and the rest of the party were there.

He found this colonial French city "a pathetic, dead place," but the docks were marvelous. There was so little trade there I suppose they could spend all their time keeping them clean," he added.

He was disappointed with Canton, but found Peking the best part of all China, and was surprised at the excellence of the wagon-tail service on the railway there from Shanghai.

Of Tokyo he said "It gets full marks. It simply takes your breath away. Everything is new, and the taxis were the best I had ever ridden in."

In California he was entertained in several private homes, and found the hospitality of that state almost overwhelming. He spent three days in San Francisco and four in Los Angeles and Hollywood.

Capt. Silous would say little of conditions in India except that "The country is in the melting pot at present." A whole new system of government was being tried out, he explained. How it would work in the end was impossible to say yet. Commercially, the jute situation in Calcutta was adversely affecting the whole country.

Capt. Silous is a native of Jersey. He believed Duncan must be very much like that island in the days before the war. He had once been to a church service there attended by twenty retired generals.

This morning Capt. Silous was setting out by car to visit Butcher's gardens and the lower part of Vancouver Island.

GOULD RUSH IN

Georgetown, British Guiana, June 9.—Lured by fresh discoveries of gold in the British Guiana hinterlands, thousands of prospectors are pouring into the interior. D. R. Brantford, director of a geological survey sent out by the British Colonial Office, said on his return to Georgetown.

The gold hunters are going into the Oku district of the Mazaruni country as fast as transportation permits he reported.

GOVERNOR INVITED
BY CANADIAN CLUB

An invitation has been sent by the Canadian Club of Victoria to Baron Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, to be the honor-guest at the August luncheon of the club and address the members.

It is expected the Governor and his party will reach Victoria about August 15 and will spend three days here. It will be the Governor's first trip to western Canada since he took over office last year.

WARNING ABOUT GERMANY

New York, June 9. (Associated Press)—Dr. George Bernard, exiled German statesman, publisher and economist, said yesterday evening Chancellor Adolf Hitler was building a war machine which was a menace to all Europe and that European nations should make it clear now they would unite to crush the Third Reich in case of hostilities.

RADIOS INCREASE

Ottawa, June 9. (Canadian Press).—Private radio receiving licenses issued in Canada during the year ended March 31 totaled 662,109, an increase of 49,784 over the previous year. Western provinces, where British Columbia 80,215 (70,859), Alberta 53,318 (49,107), Saskatchewan 49,059 (41,873).

GROUPS AT CONVENTION

New York, June 9. (Associated Press)—The Oxford Group, at the end of its first national assembly in United States, will try, through its founder, Dr. Frank N. D. Buchanan, to establish "God-control" in the Cleveland Republican Convention. Dr. Buchanan said he would go to Cleveland tonight and would seek to "change" United States politicians in attendance there.

TO DEVELOP
CAMP SITE

"Y" Camp in Need of Row-
boat and Small Stove For
Headquarters

At a meeting of the Y.M.C.A. camp committee yesterday evening with W. T. Strath in the chair, the property and site development of the new Glens Lake camp was discussed at length.

It was decided that the new site would be thoroughly surveyed and plans for the full development of the buildings and equipment would be made this summer.

The committee reported they were greatly in need of rowboats for the lake and a small stove for the headquarters, and would be grateful to anyone able to donate them.

A short-wave radio set will be installed in the camp this summer so that the youngsters may send messages home whenever they desire. It will probably be operated by a member of the Y.M.C.A. short-wave club.

In preparation for the coming season work is being done on the road leading from the highway to the camp and it is expected it will be in better condition by July 2, the date set for the opening.

LACK OF FIELD
CANCELS TRIP

Capt. E. G. Froberg Planned
Flight to Victoria, But No
Landing Field Available

Victoria's lack of a suitable airplane landing field today caused cancellation of a proposed flight to Victoria by Capt. E. G. Froberg, general superintendent of the American Mail Line at Seattle.

Capt. Froberg had made plans to fly here today with three Seattle friends, when he was advised over the telephone the field on Lansdowne Road was in no fit condition for a safe landing. He was grown over with high grass and weeds and a landing there would be extremely hazardous, he was advised.

Rather than take any chances, Capt. Froberg canceled his trip. He had intended to spend today in Victoria, taking up groups of his local friends on short flights. He pilots the plane himself, having qualified as a pilot for passenger planes some months ago.

Capt. Froberg intended to meet the inbound St. President Jackson here tomorrow morning and fly back to Seattle after she had cleared for the Sound port. He will now come to Victoria by regular steamer.

yesterday evening the government hoped to set such a high standard for these directorships that the attainment of one of them would be regarded as the blue ribbon of integrity, character, judgment and reputation. This was fitting because the directors would be charged with the delicate and vital task of controlling and regulating the volume of credit available in Canada.

The bill amending the Bank of Canada act to give the government control of the institution received second reading without a division, but in the committee stage encountered further criticism from government supporters. Three clauses were passed.

The discussion continued this afternoon with G. G. McGeer, monetary-minded mayor of Vancouver and Liberal member for Vancouver-Burrard, completing a speech he began yesterday.

CREATION OF MONEY.

The function of creating money should be exercised by the government alone, said Mr. McGeer. The government through the mint made copper, silver and nickel coins and made a profit on the business. Yet the still more profitable business of making paper money had been turned over to the banks, operating for private profit.

The government bill was perpetuating, Mr. McGeer continued, the right of the Bank of Canada to print paper money. The institution could spend $25 in gold and print $100 in paper money. It then could use the money to buy government bonds and make a profit. In other words, the government was borrowing from a bank it created and empowered.

YEARS OF STUDY

The monetary reformer admitted he was running contrary to public opinion in expressing his views, but he was sure public opinion would catch up to his views eventually. He did not say his own views were absolutely correct, but for years he had studied banking and currency and believed this was enough to command the respect of members of the House.

It was an anomalous situation, he continued, where Parliament was short of money and a bank it created had more money than it knew how to use.

American Telephone Leads Pre-closing Rally At New York

Associated Press

New York, June 9.—A late rally in American Telephone stock of around 4 points today gave the share list a brisk upward push.

The major communications issue responded to the resumption of dividends by its manufacturing subsidiary, Western Electric Co.

Specialties, including retail stores and tobacco, were among the prominent gainers along with several utilities and rails.

The close was firm. Transfers were around 800,000 shares.

Trading was quiet until the final few minutes when buyers climbed aboard Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Electric Power and Light, American Power and Light and a number of others.

Soldiers' bonus hopes helped to stir up demand for scattered equities. There were a few losers under profit-taking and most of the steel and motor were narrow.

Wheat finished  $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  of a cent a bushel improved, and corn was  $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  ahead. Carrier loans were among the best in the bond market.

The French franc was heavy in foreign exchange transactions, while the British pound recovered.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX--I am tired of hearing the mothers blamed for the way their children turn out. What about the fathers' responsibility in rearing their children and fitting them to meet the bumps and hard knocks in life, and take it on the chin? It is during childhood that character is formed, and every boy needs a father who is a friend to whom he can go with his problems. There is no greater crime than that so many fathers bring children into the world and do not pay any more attention to them than if they were stray dogs. What do you think about this?

A READER.

Answer--I fully agree with you. In our curious American social structure there is nothing so strange and inexplicable as that our men should be at once the best and the worst fathers in the world. The best in the sense that they are most anxious to give material things to their children, and the worst in the sense that they so seldom give them any personal attention.

It is hardly too much to say that except for purposes of legitimacy the average American child might just as well be fatherless as to have the kind of father he possesses. Except for supporting his children the average man washes his hands of all responsibility for them. He doesn't play with them as babies. He doesn't take the trouble or the time to get acquainted with them. He hasn't any more idea of what his own little Johnny and Janey are thinking and doing and what kind of minds they have and what their desires and aspirations are than he has of any other youngsters in the neighborhood.

All of his contacts with his children are financial and these are mainly negotiated through their mother, who tells father that Sam wants a bicycle or Mary a pink dress. There are plenty of fathers and children who never in their whole lives have a single free heart-to-heart talk. Instead both of them are embarrassed to death when they are left alone together, and one or the other of them makes a sneak as soon as possible.

It is a common thing to hear a man say: "Oh, I turn the rearing of my children over to their mother and never interfere. She decides everything." This might be some sort of an excuse for the father's failure to do his duty to his children if the wife were always a woman of high intelligence and great firmness and strength of character, and if the man had great faith in her judgment. But only too often this is not the case. The man knows his wife to have little sense and no judgment; that she is weak and silly and foolishly fond, and that she isn't fit to raise a Pomeranian pup, yet into her hands he commits immortal souls and lets her wreck her folly upon them.

How a man can stand idly by and watch his silly wife ruin his children and wreck their lives passes comprehension, yet it is done every day. The father sees the children's mother spoiling them to death, fostering their weaknesses, indulging their every whim and desire, letting them grow up lazy, uncontrolled and undisciplined. He knows that it spells ruin for them, but either through inertia or because he doesn't want to have a fight with his wife he doesn't make any attempt to save them from their fate by snatching them away from her and sending them off to schools where they will get the training they cannot get at home.

It is because fathers have so little to do in rearing the children that we blame the mothers for the way the children turn out. But that does not exonerate the fathers for having failed in their obligation, for children need two parents, not one. No matter how good a mother is nor how conscientiously she tries to do her best by her children there is need for the father's influence, too, because he has a wider knowledge of life than the mother has and is better able to warn his children of the dangers they will meet.

He has trodden the road his boys are traveling. He knows the temptations that lie in wait for them. He knows the boys who come to see his daughters and can better judge them. So he speaks to his children with an authority that their mother never has. They respect his opinion and listen to it more than they do to their mother's. If we had more fathers who were on their jobs, we would have fewer hoodlum girls and boys.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX--My husband and I are young people who both work, are healthy, have a nice home and should be happy, but the fly in the ointment is that my husband is the greatest pessimist and grumbler in the world. Every day is a rainy Sunday with him. Nothing in the world is right. Life is so hard. It is too hot or too cold. Every one is getting ahead in business, but him, which isn't true. He has the worst luck as a bridge. And so on and so on. What shall I do before this wrecks our marriage, as I am afraid it will?

ANXIOUS.

Answer--Of course, you realize that when the complainers complain they are having the time of their lives and they wouldn't cheer up at any price. The father who is so happy as when they are just wallowing in woe and indulging in an orgy of self-pity.

I doubt there is any cure for them, but one woman I know at least made her pessimistic husband do his moaning away from home by joining her voice with his whenever he would start on his lamentations and outwailing him. One of her tricks was to get out a pencil and paper and begin making out the list of all her miseries for his funeral whenever he would begin complaining about his health and prophesying that he wasn't long for this world.

It is certainly hard lines on a cheerful woman to have to live with a creak-hanger, but how come you didn't find out about Jeremiah's disposition before you married him?

DOROTHY DIX.

Uncle Wiggily and the Blinker

By HOWARD B. GARIS

Looking up from her sewing, Mrs. Long-ears' husband glanced around the room with a puzzled expression. "What's the matter, did you lose something?" Uncle Wiggily replied, and he hopped toward the door. "But Jiggie and I were going to take a walk, and now where is Jiggie?"

You remember Jiggie was the little honey-bee that had come to live in the hollow stump bygone.

"Why, he went out half an hour ago!" Mrs. Long-ears' said. "And he hasn't come back yet. I think of it, he did say something about meeting you at the crossroads at the foot of the second mountain."

"Oh, gracious," the rabbit gentleman sighed, "that's right. I'd forgotten! He did tell me he'd meet me there. He must be waiting all this time! I'll have to hurry along, for this is exactly the sort of day for adventures. But we'll be back for supper, and if we do find an adventure we'll be extra hungry!"

So Uncle Wiggily hurried out and hopped along the path that led to the crossroads. It wasn't far--only about a quarter of a mile--and soon the rabbit gentleman saw one of the white roads in the distance.

And he saw something else, too--something that made him stop and gasp: "Now what in the world is going on?"

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 10, 1936

Benefic aspects rule strongly today, according to astrology. Whatever is important should be pushed with energy. Opportunities of supreme importance may be numerous on the earth.

Persons who have the key to success in business or politics will gain greatly in advancing their aims. Again the secret foretold continuation of success for those who already possess much.

This is an auspicious day to bargain for future rewards, whether they be commercial or political. It is lucky for entering into big contracts for the future.

The rule of the stars encourages whatever is associated with education. It is fortunate for ceremonies and for entertainment.

Engineers and architects will have a busy day, also persons who manufacture products made of iron and steel. The stars forecast extraordinary demands upon certain industries.

There is a good sign affecting agriculture. A long period of small farms is indicated and a telling method of food production will be tried successfully.

Real estate should be bought under this configuration, but it does not encourage speculation in large tracts of land.

Because of disquieting practices at fairs and other places where horse races attract crowds, new laws prohibiting gambling in all forms will be enacted in many parts of the country.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of extraordinary experiences of a happy sort. Pleasure will mark the coming months, when there will be temptation to spend too much money.

Children born on this day probably will be independent and courageous. Subjects of this sign have great initiative and are exceedingly self-reliant.

Jean Joseph Benjamin Constant, portrait painter, was born on this day, 1844. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include William Wayne Babcock, surgeon, 1877, and Minot J. Savage, clergyman, 1811.

Canoeists Now On Nipissing

North Bay, Ont., June 9.—Two adventurous New Yorkers, who say they hope to travel from New York to Alaska by canoe, reached here yesterday. They docked at Trout Mills, just outside the city, and brought their canoe to Lake Nipissing by truck.

The two are Sheldon P. Taylor, twenty-four, and Geoffrey W. Pope, twenty-four. They plan to start today, across Lake Nipissing, then down the French River to the northern part of Georgian Bay. From there they will head westward to the head of the Great Lakes, finding their way by river and lake to Lake Winnipeg, and in the same manner heading up through the Northwest Territories.

The paddlers travel in an eight-foot canoe. They left New York April 28.

Will Cross Atlantic On Exchange Visits Cannot Touch Montreal Port

Senator Rainville Tells the Senate Committee It Is Autonomous Body

Ottawa, June 9.—The Montreal Harbor Commission is an autonomous body under its charter of incorporation and could not be placed under the new national harbor board, Senator J. H. Rainville, Conservative, Montreal, submitted today before the senate railway, harbors and telegraphs committee.

The charter creating the Montreal Harbor Commission in 1907 by act of the Lower Canada Legislature established it as an "independent corporation," the former chairman of the Montreal board argued.

The Montreal Harbor Commission enjoys the same category as the Port of London, England, and no government in England would dare lay its hands on the Port of London, Senator Rainville said.

If the country is going to have a civil service commission, Senator A. D. McRae, Conservative, Vancouver, declared, this was the place for it to operate. Permanent employees should be protected by being placed under the civil service commission "in place of being at the beck and call of politicians."

This policy would be better for the peace of mind of the Minister of Marine.

"Let us get rid of this patronage in the administration of our harbor boards and give a chance for operation free from patronage under this bill," General McRae said.

Mr. McRae maintained the permanent officials, including port managers, should be under the civil service commission. Port managers should have the right to hire and fire temporary workers, he said, and the new set-up should be treated "as a great public service."

DOWN THE GANGWAY

Victoria to Greet 1,000 Deep-sea Travelers This Week
—H. F. Alexander Sails Tonight—President Jackson and Empress of Asia Here Tomorrow—Niagara Due Later in Week—Record for "Steamship Hiking" Is Set

Starting this evening with the visit for two hours of the S. H. F. Alexander, Victoria will be host during the week to nearly 1,000 world travelers who will come here aboard half a dozen deep-sea liners. When one of these big ships comes to port—if only for two or three hours—it means most of the passengers disembark, take motor cars and go for drives to the business and the residential districts.

The H. F. Alexander will reach the Rithet pier this evening at 8 o'clock from Seattle and will sail at 10 o'clock for San Francisco and Los Angeles. Among the passengers booked at the local office of the Pacific Steamship Lines for this sailing are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rose, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Moll, returning to their home in Los Angeles; Mrs. M. C. Davey, Mrs. A. H. Davies, Miss Marian Burns, Miss Ellen Johnson and Mrs. Laura Willner.

Tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock the American Mail liner President Jackson, Capt. Morris Seavey, U.S.N.R., is expected at the Rithet pier from the Orient. She will remain here until 10 o'clock, before proceeding to Seattle. There is a good list of passengers aboard this ship.

A Japanese opera star—still rare in the field of music—is coming in aboard the Jackson. She is Miss Miyoshi Sugimachi and she is going to Portland to sing the leading role in a Japanese opera during the Rose Festival.

Dr. T. Z. Koo, who has crossed the Pacific many times and knows Victoria well, is also aboard the Jackson. He is secretary of the World Alliance of Y.M.C.A. and is en route to a New York conference with his daughter.

Several Orient tourists, members of the Lantern Land Party, under the personal conductors of Ella Jensen of Seattle, are returning aboard the President Jackson. They left Victoria April 11 on the President Jefferson.

There is an interesting group of people aboard the S. S. Niagara, due from Australia and New Zealand, via Swarts Bay and Honolulu, some time on Friday. The ship was late leaving Honolulu, being delayed to pick up a party of twenty-eight school teachers returning to their homes in the Pacific Northwest. Yesterday evening at 6 o'clock this ship was 1,487 miles off Victoria, according to a report picked up at the Gonzales Wireless Station.

The Chief of Police of Honolulu, W. B. Harrison, is aboard the Niagara with the Honolulu police. The chief and his wife are on their way to Portland, where they will attend the annual conference of the Northwest Police Chiefs' Association and will invite members of that organization to make Honolulu the venue of the 1937 convention.

Others on the Niagara are William Clark, wealthy New Zealand sheep rancher, on his way to his shooting lodge in Scotland with his wife and two children; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Sawtelle of Honolulu; Miss A. Hensell of Sydney, who will visit the Fairbridge Farm School at Duncan; W. Gauld, retired, assistant government director of the Indian State Railways; Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Anton of Sydney, who are touring; Miss Larvina Barton and Mrs. Nellie Harris of Honolulu; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ackroyd, socially prominent residents of Auckland and Dr. T. Ferrier-Hulme of London, on a world trip.

And then, last but by no means least, there's the Empress of Asia. She will be here tomorrow afternoon, sailing earlier in the week than usual because she is going to Honolulu this voyage.

Most of the passengers on the Asia will be business travelers, although there are nine Jesuit priests going to the Philippine Islands for mission work; the usual number of business men and a number of Orient residents returning from visits to America and Europe.

Here is an amusing story of a man who made a round trip between San Diego and Victoria on the S. S. Emma Alexander during the last two weeks and set up a record for Pacific Coast "steamship hiking." Dr. Victor C. Alderson, during his days at sea on the Emma, walked a total of 139 miles. He hiked around the promenade deck of the vessel scores of times each day. Seventeen laps around the deck amount to a mile, Chief Purser C. D. Littlehales checked Dr. Alderson's "mileage" every day and gave him credit for eight miles on the trip north to Victoria and fifty-nine miles on the voyage south.

Much Island Lumber Shipped This Week

Five Freighters Already This Week Come to Port For 3,765,000 Feet; United States Takes Largest Amount

Already this week five freighters have come to Victoria to load close to 4,000,000 feet of Vancouver Island lumber for the United Kingdom and the United States. Several other ships are due before Saturday, and are expected to set a record for shipment of island lumber through the port of Victoria.

The largest amount of this lumber is destined to Atlantic Coast ports of the United States. The United Kingdom is taking the next greatest amount.

The Trebartha, Capt. G. G. Barrett, is at Ogden Point today, loading 1,487 miles of lumber for the United States. The S. S. Hopewell, Capt. R. T. Tucker, is also at Ogden Point, loading 1,250,000 feet for the same destination.

The freighter, Hadleigh, Capt. W. W. Quaitie, is the third ship at Ogden Point today. She is taking 625,000 feet for the United Kingdom.

The Umbreller left Ogden Point yesterday evening at 8:20 o'clock, and proceeded to Vancouver to complete the feet of lumber here.

The S. S. Thistlegate, Capt. W. W. Quaitie, got away Sunday afternoon for England, after taking 400,000 feet at this port.

The total for these five ships amounted to 3,765,000 feet. Shipment of Vancouver Island lumber to the United States has gradually increased since the first of the year, when tariff adjustments permitted this movement again. Most of the lumber for the United States has gone to Atlantic ports, although California has also taken several large consignments.

Plan Better Service Canada to Australia

Hon. W. D. Euler, H. H. Stevens and Hon. R. B. Bennett Agree Present Ships on Run Are "Somewhat Obsolete"

Ottawa, June 9.—Negotiations are afoot looking to a faster and better steamship service between Canada and Australia and New Zealand. Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce, told the House of Commons yesterday. The subsidy for the service was increased from $200,000 to $300,000 this year.

Mr. Euler agreed with Hon. H. H. Stevens (Reconstruction, Kootenay East) and Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, when they suggested the ships on the service owned jointly by the C.P.R. and the Union Steamship Company were somewhat obsolete.

Mr. Bennett said Canada was losing mail and passenger business to the port of San Francisco owing to the competition of a heavily subsidized United States line with faster and more modern ships. Mr. Stevens suggested the service was of great importance and should be improved, even if the subsidy had to be increased still more.

"The whole situation is being explored very thoroughly, to put it mildly, with a view to putting better ships on this service," said Mr. Euler.

Mr. Euler said that the C.P.R. and the Union Steamship Company were somewhat obsolete. He said Prince Rupert was being used by the government, and was surrounded by a rich undeveloped hinterland. Encouragement given the Port of Prince Rupert would pay dividends in increased business for the Canadian National Railways and in the development of northern British Columbia.

VANCOUVER SHIPPING

Vancouver, June 9.—Mrs. Margaret Johnson of C. Gardner Johnson Co. Ltd., will sail from here on Wednesday for Seattle with 4,500 tons grain and 300 tons general cargo. The M. S. Annie Johnson of the same line, is due July 12. S. S. Condor will arrive to the same agency on June 18 and the Union tanker Santa Maria on June 11.

A new freighter, the Peebles, is held to Anglo-Canadian Shipping Co. Ltd. on her maiden voyage. She will load for United Kingdom.

Mr. Rosen, under charter to Empire Shipping Co., will sail for the Antipodes on June 10.

S. S. Lady Cecilia, yesterday was having her propellers changed at the Burrard Drydock Co. plant at North Vancouver. S. S. Albertville will dock at the shipyard today for minor repairs.

H.M.S. REPULSE IS AGAIN IN SERVICE

Canadian Press
Portsmouth, Eng., June 9.—The battleship Repulse was en route from Portsmouth to the Mediterranean after spending three years in dockyards for modernization.

Reconstruction of the 35,000-ton warship cost £1,400,000 (about $7,000,000) and greatly increased its efficiency.

The Repulse replaces the battleship Renown, about to undergo repairs estimated at £750,000 (about $3,500,000).

British, German Vessels Collide

Quebec, June 9.—The British tanker, Cymbeline, in which thirty men lost their lives in an explosion and fire four years ago, limped into port today to report she had been in collision with the German freighter Frankfurt.

The freighter was reported to have suffered only minor damage in the crash which occurred yesterday in the fog off Basque Island, near the mouth of the Saguenay, but the Cymbeline showed effects of a heavy smash in her bow.

The Frankfurt, inbound from Bremen and Hamburg with general cargo, continued on her way to Montreal.

SEA MONSTER FOUND DEAD

Experts Wonder Whether Twelve-foot Serpent Is Relative of Cadborosaurus.

Aberdeen, Wash., June 9.—Crowds filed past a shed today to see the remains of a twelve-foot, 1,300 pound sea monster resembling legendary sea serpents.

D. W. Black, Baltimore zoologist, and his two assistants examined the creature, discovered on the ocean beach near here.

Black said he planned to scrape the flesh off and mount the skeleton for display either at the University of Washington, Seattle, or in an eastern museum.

He said the bone-less creature "faintly resembled" reconstructed skeletons of prehistoric animals.

It has a long, goat-like head, a body tapered like a buffalo's and a four-foot tail similar to a muskrat's. Its heavy, oily skin covered fourteen ribs, each about an inch and a half wide, four inches apart.

Speculation was rife whether the monster was a mate of Cadborosaurus, the famous sea serpent sighted frequently the last two years in the Strait of Juan de Fuca and on the British Columbia coast off Vancouver Island.

Ship officers and other witnesses signed affidavits in 1934 describing an unfriendly sea monster they said they saw near Pender Island in British Columbia. Descriptions were similar to characteristics of Aberdeen's serpent.

Black said he never saw such an animal before in his sixteen years of research.

Sees Airplanes In Competition

Hon. C. D. Howe Tells Railway to "Strip For Battle of Efficiency"

London, Ont., June 9.—A hope the jurisdiction of the Canadian Board of Railway Commissioners would be broadened in the near future to include the power to regulate rates for almost all types of transportation except motor vehicles, is expressed by Hon. C. D. Howe, Dominion Minister of Railways.

Speaking to 400 members of the Toronto Railway Club here last Saturday evening, Mr. Howe intimated the power to regulate rates for inland shipping, some coastal shipping, aviation and national ports, logically follows the creation of a Department of Transportation.

Executives of both the Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific Railway attended the meeting.

Warning that "in a few years' vision would be added to other modes of transportation offering serious competition to the railways in Canada, Mr. Howe told the railwaymen to "strip for a battle of efficiency."

"Efficiency is going to tell," he said, pointing out that since canals were given up because they were not efficient, the same thing could happen to the railways.

Tracing briefly the history of transportation in Canada, Mr. Howe said airplanes were now being built at a cost of $750,000.

"Probably in a year they will be building one at a cost of $1,000,000. Such money is not spent for playthings," he said.

Dealing with the new Department of Transportation, Mr. Howe said the government would be able to move for fair play between the various transportation systems of the Dominion.

While the department had no connection with motor vehicles, which are under provincial control, some effort was being made for uniform control of the highways between the provinces.

Questioning the advisability of good highways, he said the abandonment of such short branch lines would be part of the railway movement "stripping for greater efficiency."

"The spirit of co-operation is creeping into the transport business. I hope the next few years that co-operation will be extended so that all forms can join in solving the problems."

Admiral Evans Changes Owners
Sale of the steamship Admiral Evans of the Pacific Steamship Lines to the Dulien Steel Products Inc. has been announced in Seattle. The Admiral Evans is well known all along the Pacific Coast and several times has called into Victoria.

The ship is now in Portland, where she has been idle for two years. It is not yet decided whether the ship will be broken up or put into operation again.

The Admiral Evans is of 1,275 tons, with a beam of thirty-eight feet and a depth of twenty-two feet. She was built in 1901 at Toledo, Ohio, as the Buckman, and was purchased by the Pacific Steamship Lines in 1905. First operated between Puget Sound, British Columbia, and California, she was put into Alaska service in 1914.

It was the Admiral Evans that made the headlines twenty-five years ago when her crew mutinied between San Francisco and Seattle and shot and killed her master, Capt. Benjamin Woods.
